Shelhamer leaves ag office

By DIETER KRIEG

HARRISBURG — Kent Shelhamer is out of the Secretary of Agriculture Office, and his replacement, Penrose Hallowell, is in. The change took place Tuesday, when Richard Thornburgh took over the reigns of state government. Hallowell is Thornburgh's choice as agriculture secetary and he has been given the keys to the Department the fact that he hasn't yet been confirmed by the State Senate.

Shelhamer formally took office in February of 1977, accepting the top agriculture job with humble enthusiasm. None of that seems to have diminished since then. A man who prides himself on his career as a farmer, as well as a politician, Shelhamer said he wanted to make the Department more responsive to the needs of Pennsylvania's farmers. He believes he has done that. Many farmers would agree. At Monday's Pennsylvania Farmers Union Convention, for example, the news of his departure prompted remarks that he will be missed. "He was the best secretasry of agriculture the state has had for long time," said one Centre Countian. Others in the group nodded in agreement.

Praise for Shelhamer has come from other groups and individuals as well. While he admits that he isn't liked by everyone, he is modestly pleased with the kind of relationship he has had with farmers and farm organization leaders. He is a member of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association, the Pennsylvania State Grange, and the Pennsylvania Farmers Union and he met regularly with leaders of each of those groups. He hopes his successor will continue that tradition.

During a recent interview with Lancaster Farming, Shelhamer made it plain that he appreciated the two years he had to serve as secretary of agriculture. He came into office with a practical, grass-roots, nuts-and-bolts philosophy and he believes he earned respect with that attitude. What follows is the first installment of a 2-part story on Kent Shelhamer and his two years as Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture.

Acknowledging that he has made some people unhappy with his decisions, he is proud of his positions nonetheless. In fact, he's as proud of his "stubborness" as he is of his farm background. He made the latter a prerequisite for high-level employment in his office. "There is no job for a farmer that's too tough to tackle," he said in an interview two years ago. He was determined to be a secretary of agriculture who worked on behalf of farmers.

Cooperatives facing the ax

LAS VEGAS, Nev. - House Agriculture Committee Chairman Thomas S. Foley (D-Wash) has predicted that legislation will be introduced this year to limit the scope of farmer cooperatives in the U.S.

Foley said the legislation will result from recommendations of the National Commission To Review Antitrust Laws and Procedures. The recommendations, which will be sent to the President on January 22, will call for modifications to the Capper-Volstead Act affecting cooperative mergers and cooperative marketing agencies in common.

Speaking at the 50th annual meeting of the National Council of Farmer Cooperatives, Foley expressed concern that House members of the commission were from the Judiciary Committee, and had little or no experience in agricultural matters.

He assured his audience that cooperatives will not be decimated by ill-considered legislation, and suggested that the Agriculture Committee might try to gain some jurisdiction over the legislation when it's introduced in the House..

Foley added, however, that urban members of Congress won't be easy to approach on the issue. "The story of the value of cooperatives will have to be told at the grassroots level throughout the country," he said.

Turning to other issues facing the Agriculture Committee, Foley said there is apprehension in the country that food prices will rise about 10 per cent again this year. He stated that any proposal for an agricultural relief measure requiring large outlays of federal money, or raising food prices, will cause great public concern.

The Agriculture Committee chairman said that other issues expected to be examined by his committee this year include: bargaining legislation, federal grain inspection, federal crop insurance, export sales reporting requirements, sugar production base, and the general agricultural situation.

Cooperative Monitoring System

The role of cooperatives in fighting inflation was covered by James C. Webster, director, Office of Governmental and Public Affairs, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

"In terms of fighting inflation in the farm economy," he said "you have always been on the front line and you're still there. Cooperatives have been and continue to be examples of efficiency in the food system."

Webster added that despite this proved record, co-ops are charged by some with having too many privileges and too much power. He noted that Secretary of Agriculture Bergland believes that the protection farmers have under the Capper-Volstead Act imposes a stern responsibility not to betray the trust that legislation imposed.

As a result, said Webster, Secretary Bergland has established a monitoring system to carry out his authority under the Capper-Volstead Act. He said the system will Dairy farmers are being informed that their milk prices will be going up in April, but the increase may not be enough to keep many dairymen in business. Details are on page 1.

Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, visited central Pennsylvania this week, telling an audience of about 300 persons that the White House, not the Department of Agriculture, is responsible for agricultural programs. His viewpoints are detailed in articles beginning on pages 1 and 10.

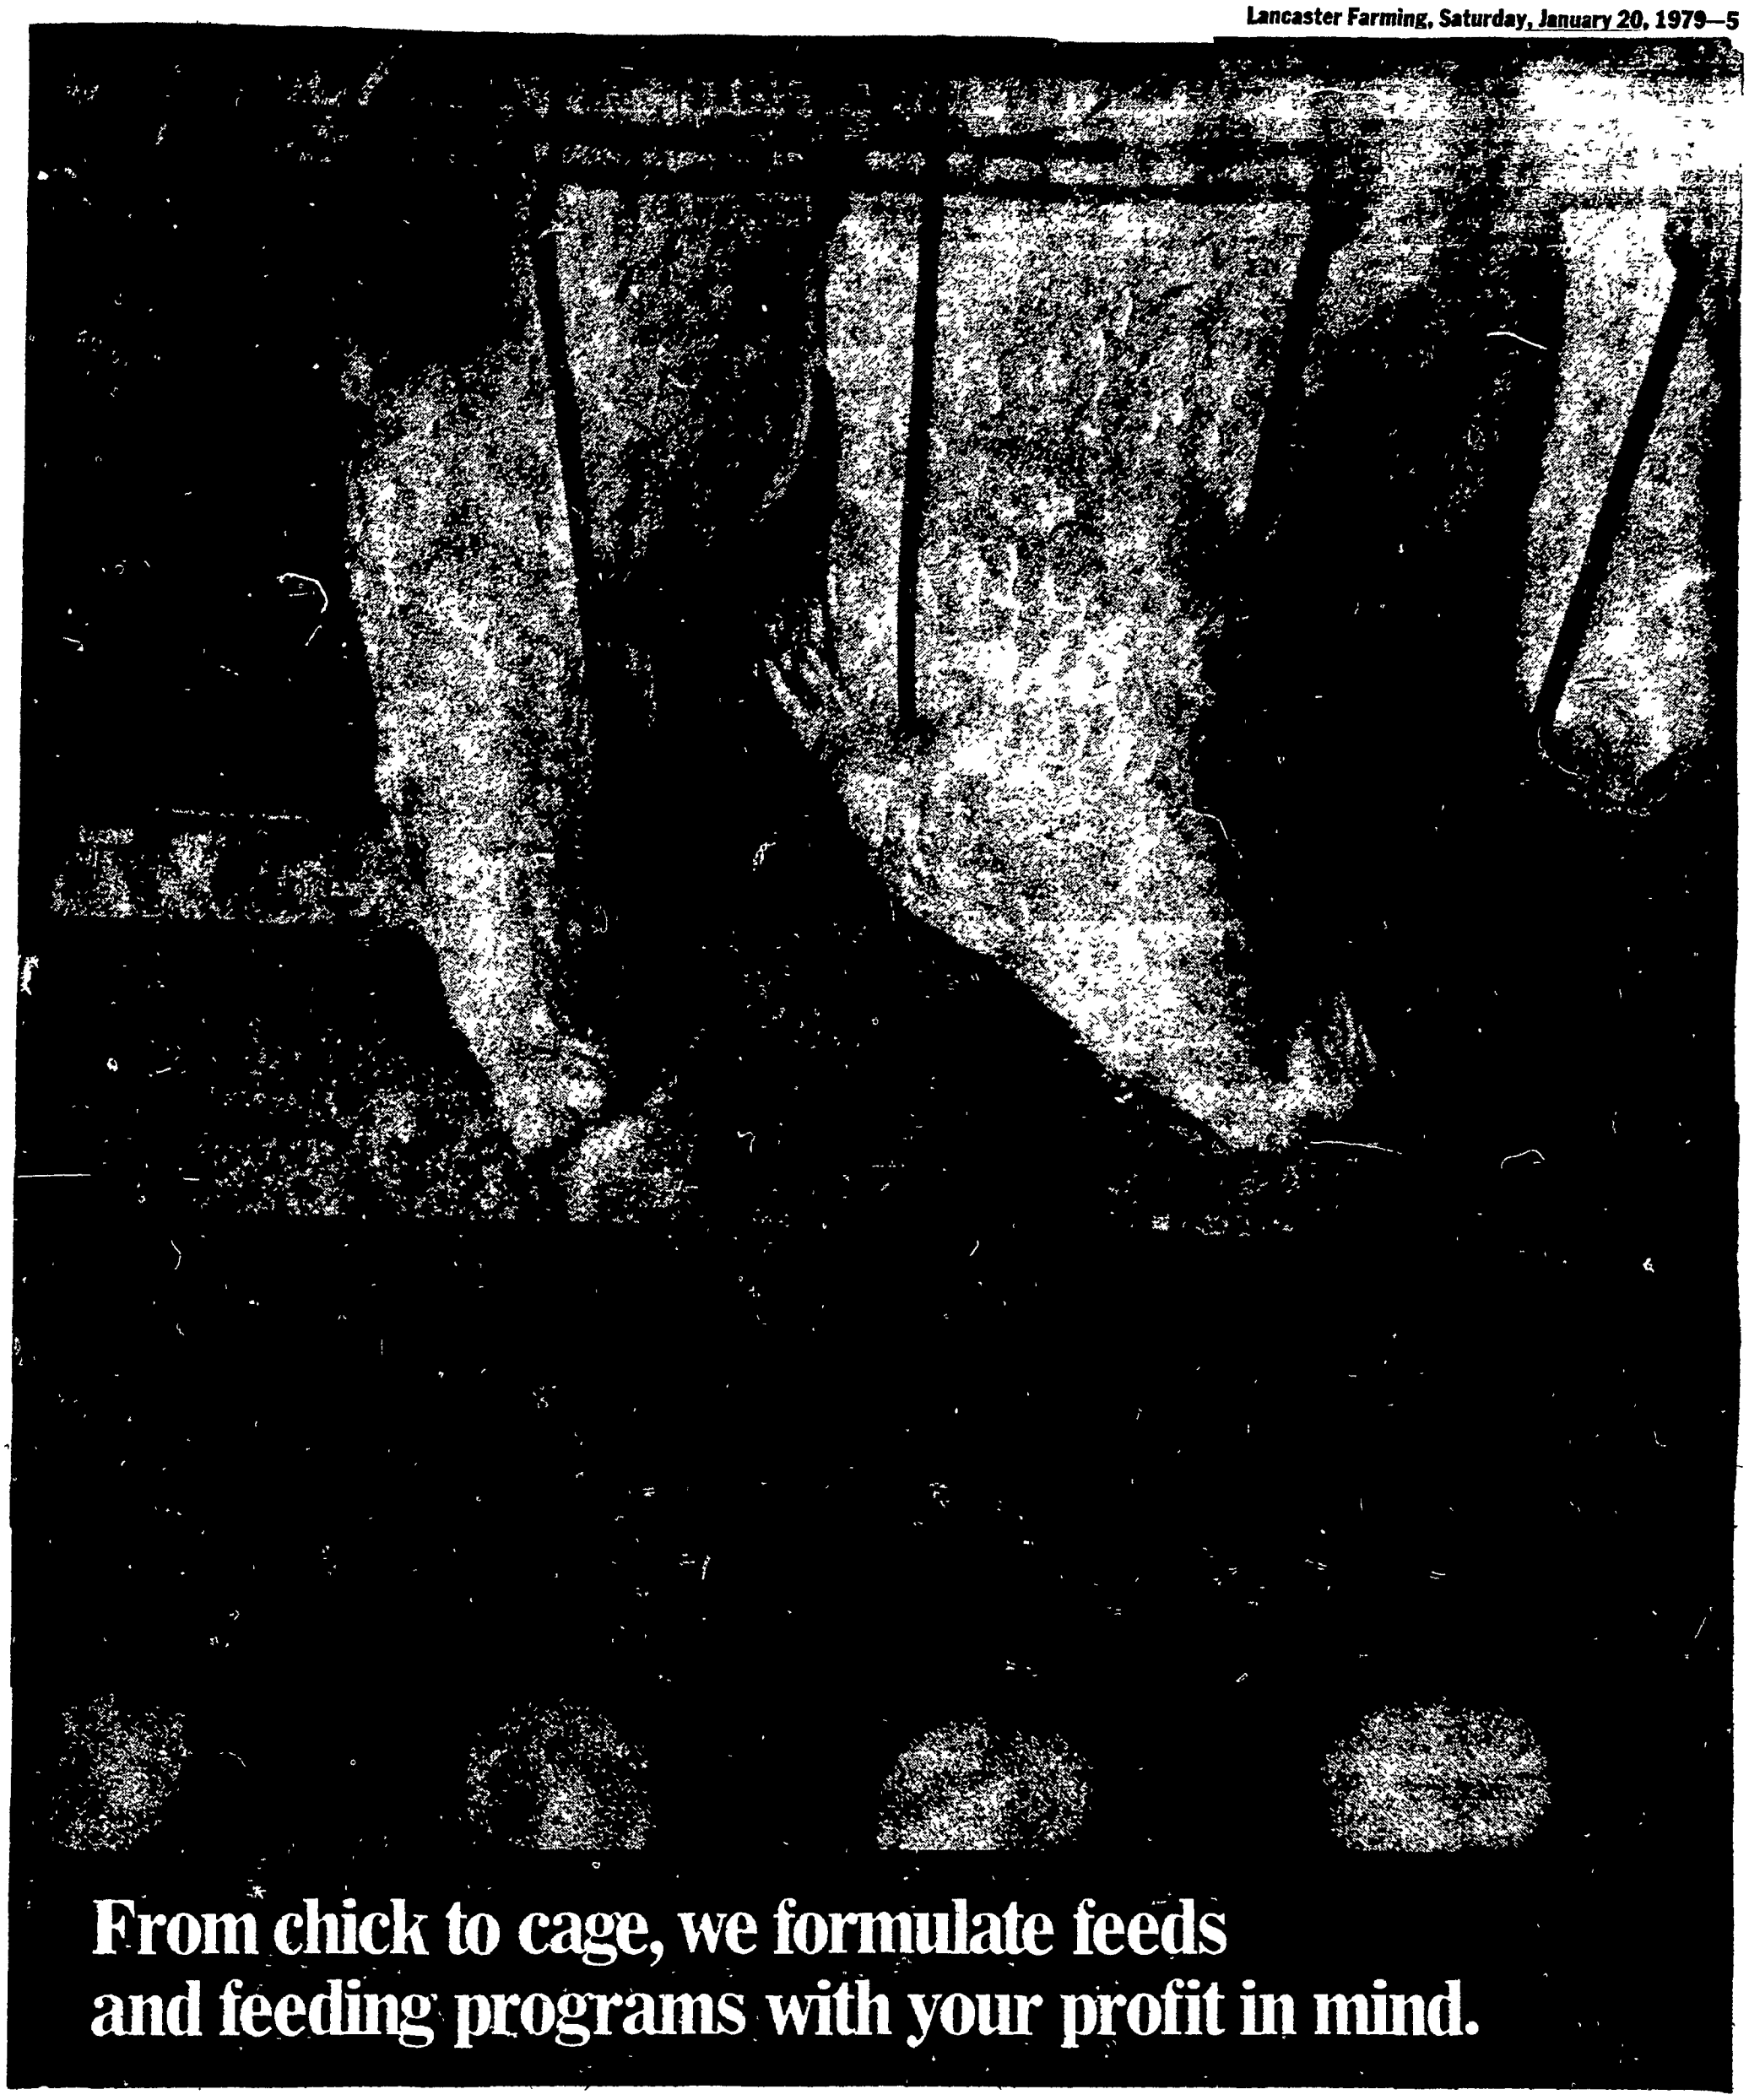
HUBBARD WHITE MT. BROILERS



From chick to cage, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

Do you have an open mind?

Are you ready to devote an hour or two of your time planning for a more profitable future?

If your answer to both questions is yes, you owe it to yourself to read what we have to say.

Unlike many other feed companies, we develop custom feeding programs for each individual operation.

It all starts with a Pennfield man reviewing your operation with you. Your goals. Your records. The health and overall condition of your birds. Whether you grow chicks or buy started pullets. The type of equipment you use. The production potential of your flock. Your management practices. And other factors that have an effect on your profit potential.

With the aid of computers, we then design a feeding program specifically tailored to your birds needs—a program that can improve your profits by reducing expenses, increasing production, or both.

For example, when we recommended producers switch from a competitive 18% protein feed to an optimum-nutrient density Pennfield feed, there was no loss in production—and this one recommendation has saved as much as $12,000 a year depending on flock size.

There is no cost—or obligation—for this unique service. But you must take the first step by writing or phoning us. Do it today.

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

JAN. 22-28, 1979

It's frigid, and lakes are rigid.

Good sledding now Picard descended 37,800 ocean feet Jan 22, 1959 New moon Jan 28 Average length of days for the week, 9 hours, 42 minutes On the 29th, the asteroid Juno will be eclipsed by the moon at 9 PM (can be observed with an amateur's telescope) Raccoons are mating now One pardons to the degree that one loves

Ask the Old Farmer: From my Vermont family I acquired a tin candle mold It is in one piece, not split How did they get the candles out in one piece? A L, Cherry Hill, N J

Wax shrinks slightly as it cools, so candles often could be lifted out Or the mold could be dipped briefly in hot water, similar to the way ladies get jello out of those fancy dishes Most craft shops sell a spray that helps prevent sticking

Home Hints· To defrost food slowly, place in a styrofoam cooler

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Cold, some heavy snow to start, then clearing for weekend

Greater New York-New Jersey: First of week, cold and snowy, then partly sunny and cold.

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Week starts rainy and cold, with freezing rain at midweek, then clear, very cold

Omaha Cattle

January 18, 1979

CATTLE: Compared late previous week's close - prices on slaughter steers were steady to 25 cents higher, limited late sales 50-1.00 higher, and heifers closed 25-50 cents higher. Cows were weak to 50 cents lower, bulls firm, instances 50-1.00 higher.

The fed cattle trade followed a very uneven pattern as weather was again the dominating factor the fore part of week. Severe blizzard conditions in eastern Iowa and across Illinois paralyzed traffic and virtually halted movement of carcass beef into the Chicago area and beyond till midweek. Local packers were forced to reduce slaughter quotas as coolers filled and trucks were tied up at the eastern end of the run. Prices were forced downward the forepart of the week under a restricted demand despite modest marketings, but the early downturn was more than offset in an aggressive later trade as weather conditions improved and traffic again began moving. Slaughter steers made up approximately 44 pct. and heifers 32 pct. cows comprised 12 pct. and feeders 10 pct.

STEERS: On Thursday, load Choice and Prime 3-4 1168 lbs. 62.75, load Choice and Prime 3-4 1144 lbs. 61.75 Wednesday. TO EXERCISE DAIRY COWS

The importance of turning out the dairy herd each day from stanchion or comfort stalls should not be overlooked. As we expect more production per cow, the stresses get greater, and if not given due exercise, more breeding problems will result. Dairymen with free-stalls have the opportunity of observing all the time for heat periods. However, cows that are confined to stalls all the time present a heat detection problem. Very few days will the weather be so bad that the milking herd should not be turned out for a few minutes. If the dairymen is alert and observing, cows that are in heat can be detected and bred. We seem to be having more breeding problems in too many of our good dairy herds. Exercise might help.

TO CONTROL PARASITES

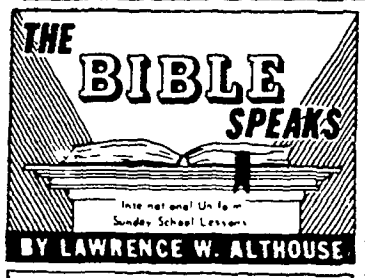
Colder weather, and the resulting longer hair coats on all species of livestock, makes it more difficult to detect and control body lice and other parasites. We urge all livestock producers to be on the alert for these infestations. Animals with lice are not comfortable and will not produce or gain weight efficiently. There are a number of dusts and sprays that can be used even in cold weather. When spraying be sure to use cold water during cold weather so the pores of the skin will not be opened. Constant rubbing and the appearance of bare spots on animals are signs of lice infestation.

TO BE CAREFUL WHEN BUYING

Many livestock and dairy producers are guilty of buying their problems Except in the case of a complete dispersal of a herd or flock, the animals that are offered for sale are released because of some reason. When a producer buys these animals there is little known about their problems or background. This is one good reason to buy directly from the producer, or to have some guarantee that the animal is sound and healthy. Health papers should be a part of every purchase. Verbal agreements are usually not sufficient to make adjustments later in the deal. Be very selective when buying and be sure that you are not buying animals with disease or some major problem.

TO FEED EFFICIENTLY

Cattle and hog producers face favorable prices for their finished animals. However, in most cases the profits must be made from cheaper gains rather than on the margin between first cost and market value. Good management at all times will help keep down these costs. The control of parasites, balanced rations, salt and minerals, less wasting of feed, and market when ready are all things that should be handled for efficient gains. With the moderate prices of feed grains the cost of weight gains should be low enough to realize some profit when market prices are favorable. Attention should be given to the lower cost of weight gains in all feeding programs. This is the area where the feeding operation can mean profit or loss.



BORN FOR VICTORY

Lesson for January 21, 1979

Background Scripture:
John 14:1-3; Romans 8:18-39;
1 Thessalonians 4:13-18;
Colossians 2:6 through 3:4.

Devotional Reading:
8:31-35, 37-39.

Ralph Waldo Emerson seemed to be a man who was marked for tragedy and defeat. His young wife who he loved dearly died tragically. Two brothers who were quite close to him also died. As if these losses were not enough, he was forced to resign his pastorate of a Boston Unitarian Church because his views on Holy Communion were judged to be objectionable to the leadership of the congregation. "A doom seemed to hover over his family and his life," wrote his biographer.

Dark Moments

"But under the surface of his life," continues his biographer, "dark as it was at the moment, a purpose was taking form in his mind. He knew that he was born for victory!"

In the darkness of these moments, Emerson seemed a "loser." But he was able to look beyond the darkness to a victory of which he was certain, no matter how far ahead it might be. And because he focused his attention on the victory that was ahead of him, he was able to put all his defeats behind him.

This is precisely what Paul is saying in Romans 8: "I conside that the sufferings of this present moment are not worth comparing with the glory that is to be revealed to us" (8:18). It was this hope of a glory to come that enabled him to live victoriously even in the face of defeat. "For in this hope we are saved" (8:24). This does not mean "saved" from the experience of the present peril, but "saved" from letting the present peril conquer us.

Actually, not only may we be spared permanent defeat, but even in apparent defeat we can be "more than conquerors through him who loved us" (8:37). We can wring from our defeat a blessing even greater than that experienced by the victor. The reason: "We know that in everything God works for good with those who love him..." (8:28). Even in the midst of our apparent defeats God is working to turn defeat into triumph! With God helping us we cannot be defeated permanently. "If God is for us, who is against us?" (8:31).

If God Is For Us

One day, we are told, when Martin Luther was in deep despair, his wife entered the room and asked: "Have you not heard the news? God is dead!" The Reformer rebuked his wife of her blasphemy and she replied: "And if God is not dead, what right have you, his servant, you a Christian man, to be so downcast and depressed?"

His wife's reproach is a timely reminder for all of us, for there is nothing that can "separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord" (8:39). And if that is so, we were created and destined, not for defeat, but victory!

Beef exhibitors satisfied with split show

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG — Beef exhibitors that participated in the split show system at the Pennsylvania Farm Show last week seemed happy with the results and organization shown, according to comments from different breed officials.

Frank Darcey, president of the Pa. Polled Hereford Association, stated that his organization is drafting a letter to the Farm Show, telling that the "beef people thoroughly enjoyed the split show, finding it the smoothest job ever done."

Darcey went on to say that he had no complaints about the show whatsoever, and said that he thought those in charge should be commended.

His only concern was that he hopes in the future that there will not be a possibility of the beef exhibitors being prejudiced against by the dairy people He noted that there had been some talk of limiting beef entries and this, he firmly stated, the beef people do not want. They wish to bring as many animals to the Farm Show as they want.

He added that he hopes that the Farm Show will be able to salvage the appropriations to build a new pole barn for the beef animals but until such a barn is built, "we will live with the facilities available".

The shorter time that the cattle were at the Farm Show, he reasoned, resulted in healthier cattle and less expenses for the exhibitors.

Representing the Charolais exhibitors, Roger Mitchley, stated that he had no objections to the split show. His only suggestion would be to have the shows rotated. This year the Charolais, which arrived on Tuesday along with the rest of the cattle, showed on Wednesday. He thought a fair system would be to change the show schedule every year.

He stated that the Charolais Association reccomended that the Farm Show be extended from Saturday to the following Sunday so that the dairy show could be longer and the dairy and beef shows could be mixed, with some of both being at the Farm Show.

He said he liked the way the show was run this year, that there was more room, and the show was not rushed.

For the Angus exhibitors, Walter Laird, echoed the above thoughts, saying that he liked the split show, and thought it was a good idea, at least until the new building was built. He noted that without a split show, there would be a 20 to 30 per cent cut in cattle exhibited, and that, he stated, he was against.

Each year, expenses of showing the cattle are up, he added, but this year expenses were down, due to the amount of time at the show. He added that this year he thought he had the least number of complaints from exhibitors also.

Pennsylvania cattlemen elect officers

MECHANICSBURG - J. Paul Espy, Tyrone R1, a Huntingdon County cattle feeder, was elected president of the Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association at the organization's recent annual meeting in Mechanicsburg.

Espy has served as vice president of the association and was chairman of the membership committee.

Elected vice president was Galen Dreibelbis, of State College, a Chianina breeder. Dreibelbis is serving as director of the northeast region of the Chianina Association.

Reelected secretary was Dr. Lowell L. Wilson, professor of animal science at Penn State, and reelected treasurer was Ray Bratton, a Charolais breeder from McVeytown.

The Pennsylvania Cattlemen's Association cosponsors several programs for all segments of the beef industry, including commercial cow-calf production, feeder cattle, finishing programs, purebred breeders, and marketing personnel

Temperature control is the most important item to remember in meat cookery, according to USDA home economists. Heat causes loss of moisture, fat and other substances during cooking. However, you might retain some of the meat juices and fat in the pan drippings.

xxx

Wrap all meat prepared for freezer storage in vapor-proof heavily waxed or specially laminated freezer paper. Pack it in convenient family-sized packages tightly sealed to eliminate as much air as possible and label and date it.

Hand calls for involvement, support of co-op

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

CHESTNUT LEVEL – Keynote speaker for District 3 of Inter-State Milk Producers, Dr. Paul E. Hand, compared the past performance and future dependence of the cooperative's success to family of complex interests willing to communicate effectively.

"Inter-State has been a great cooperative in the past. It is also, as many have said, a big business. But it is more than that. It's a family interests -- a strong family, an active family, a lasting, enduring family," the assistant general-manager stated.

Since its formal organization in 1917 it has, according to Hand's presentation, grown as a family in numbers, in value, and in several other avenues to meet the needs of marketing milk in a changing society and economy.

Tracing briefly the many changes in social, moral and institutional attitudes of modern day America, Hand emphasized that the present task is to understand the existing society. Cooperatives are now under attack, and there has to be a mutual trust within the coop itself among its many branches -- members, directors, management and employees.

A strong cooperative, Hand explained, results in part from a great deal of personal involvement by its individual members on the local as well as the larger concerns. "The cooperative will be strong if individual involvement and input is given," he noted.

Pointing out many factors which have made Inter-State an effective milk marketing cooperative in the past as well as the present, Hand reported that the membership now stands at 2980, having a peak of 3,000 members in 1974. Hand said that there is a waiting list for membership but the concern is keeping the volume stationary, according to market demands. Monthly sales for the co-op tally $20 million and steps are being taken to maintain a healthy reserve and insure security to the cooperative economy, he added.

The first year of Quality Control, Inc. has been completed. Holly Milk has operated on a limited daily basis since Fall with all systems operative.

A technical problem with designing a waste disposal system to meet standards set for the early 1980's has yet to be worked out for the plant to operate on fulltime production, however. "In reality, the waste from the plant has to be purer by 1980 than the water found in the trout stream near it," he remarked.

Hand cautioned that the cooperative's future depends upon what the total dairy situation will be. As milk consumption decreases, more advertising and producing a high quality product become more a necessity.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

I don't know if you are like me or not, but during the Winter I try to plan my driving for days when the road is clear. There is one thing that can't be arranged for though and that is the school bus which comes regularly at 7:05 no matter what the weather happens to be. So the windshield must be scraped and the one mile journey to the bus stop must be taken.

In my many years of driving, snow and ice have always figured in the few accidents that I've had. Cars just seem to turn around on icy roads when I'm driving. Could it be that I don't slow down enough to allow for the road conditions?

Last month, when my daughter and her husband landed in Rochester, N.Y. from Portland, Oregon, she was disappointed as she hoped for a white Christmas. Well, she got one as there was 36 inches of snow in New York over the holidays and it was difficult for their family to get together.

This year we picked a clear, cold day to travel to the Farm Show. We took an Amish lad along and all of us appreciated the shuttle buses as one's feet surely take a beating. A few hours of big machinery, cows and horses is plenty for me. Then I gravitate to the food, vegetable and fruit displays. And I could circle the flower plants many times and forgot how tired my poor feet are as I try to decide what I want to buy to take home. Finally I decide on a yellow primrose, as I've never had one.

So, if it must snow, I do hope it will be during the daytime so that I can at least enjoy the lovely sight from my warm kitchen. I'm always disappointed when it comes during the night.

Describing himself two years ago as a "mover and a shaker," the 54-year old politician and farmer still has the gleam of a go-getter in his eye. He has no firm plans for himself now that he is out of office, other than to go back to his Columbia County fruit orchard.

Before becoming Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture, Shelhamer had 12 years of experience in the State Legislature. He believes that was a very valuable help to him during his term as ag chief. When his appointment came up for confirmation in the Senate, it came by a unanimous vote - 47 to 0.

To many farmers, former Secretary of Agriculture Kent Shelhamer was just what he wanted to be: a listener, one who was responsive to farmers. He impressed farmers with his down-to-earth, amiable style. A Lancaster County farmer once remarked after having met him that talking to Shelhamer was as easy as talking to a neighbor.

Shelhamer took full responsibility for his Department's activities, but he prided himself on consultation with farmers, he said. Some farm leaders credit him for bringing a higher degree of respect to the Department.

"If you have a high office, you have more reason to be humble than ever," Shelhamer commented in a recent interview. "There have been too many public officials in the past who have taken their just due, and don't want to step down. You've got to show people you're willing to do the dirty work too," he said.

An openly religious man, Shelhamer believes he was well prepared for his job as agriculture secretary. He was on the House Agriculture Committee during all of his 12 years in the State Legislature. While on that Committee, he claims to have had considerable effect on either sponsoring or writing new agricultural laws, including amendments. He became acquainted with government procedures, the budget, and key people. With that, he said, he had a distinct advantage for serving effectively as a leading spokesman for Pennsylvania farmers.

To be continued next week.

Kent Shelhamer says farewell as Pennsylvania Secretary of Agriculture.

Cooperatives

perform a separate function, and those who will monitor undue price enhancement will report directly to Howard Hjort, USDA's director of Economics, Policy Analysis and Budget.

"Secretary Bergland has taken this action for one reason only," Webster declared. "He believes in cooperatives. He believes they are more important today than they ever were. He believes we must all do whatever we can to strengthen them, to support them, to promote them."

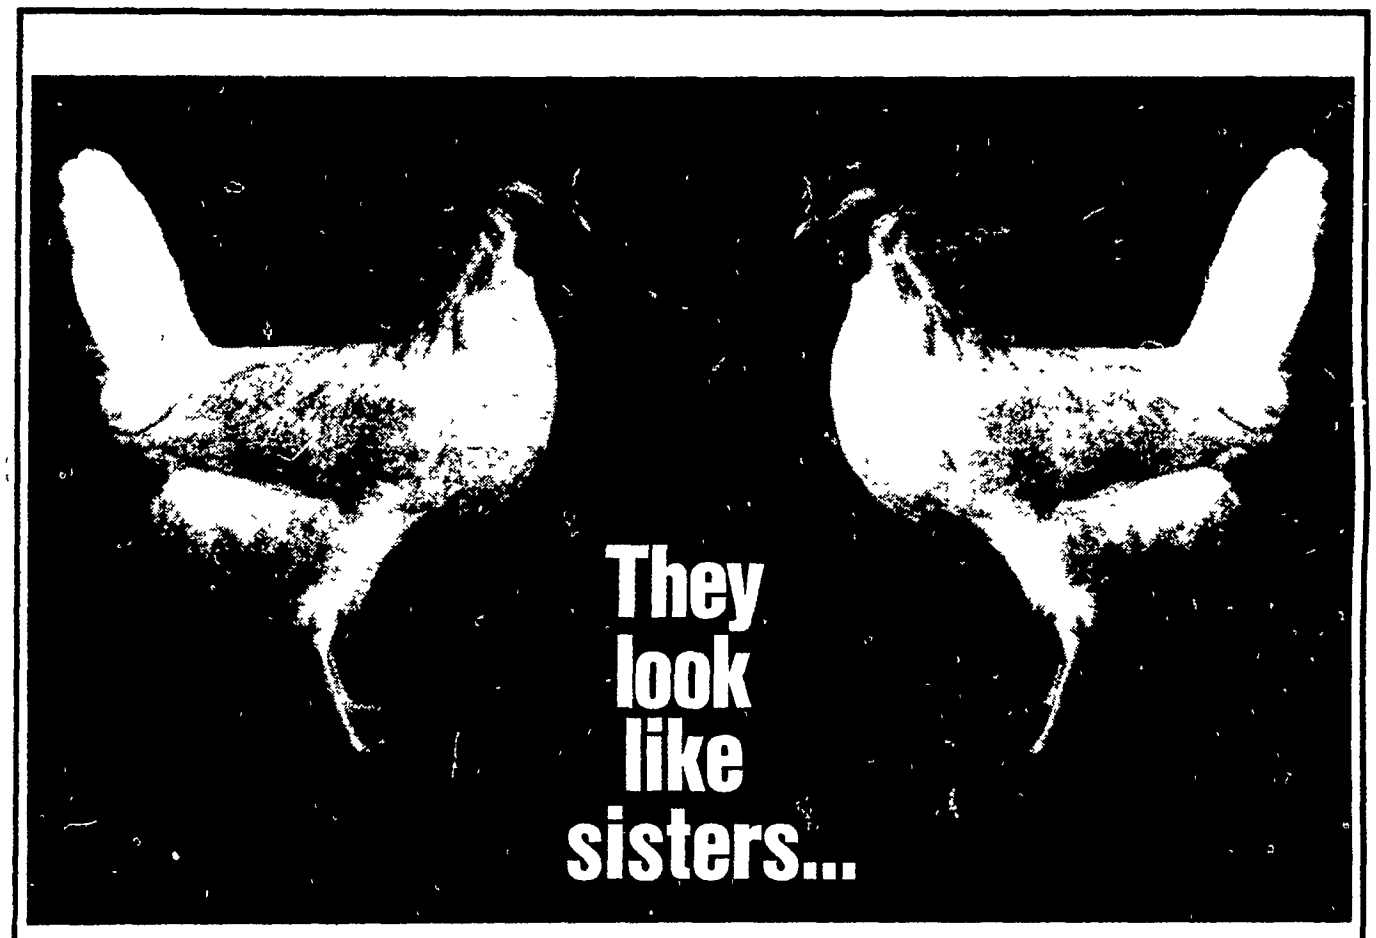
International Trade Agreement

Special Trade Representative Robert S. Strauss said a forthcoming international trade agreement will be a real step forward resulting in no closing of markets or erection of more trade barriers. He added that our real choices are either to move forward soon, or risk slipping backward into the chaos and confusion of a trade war.

The U.S. trade negotiator said that the trade package represents reductions in trade barriers of about $3 billion in agricultural exports. He indicated the Japanese have made concessions covering some 150 agricultural items amounting to about $1.4 billion in U.S. agricultural exports. Included are citrus, beef, specialty fruits and vegetables, and soybeans.

Strauss stated the European Community has made concessions covering about $700 million in U.S. exports of beef, meat by-products, poultry, tobacco, rice and fruit products. He noted that valuable concessions have also been negotiated with Canada, the Scandinavian countries, Australia, New Zealand, and a number of developing countries.

Reminding his audience that agriculture had been shortchanged in previous negotiations, Strauss said it wouldn't be shortchanged this time. He said that the U.S. is insisting on responsible agreements which provide meaningful export opportunities for our farmers, and meaningful benefits for the other sectors of our economy.



but Agway research has shown that their nutrient requirements may vary significantly

Agway can now offer feeding programs tailored to many commercial layer strains.

It has been well established that meat birds have different nutrient requirements than layers *Now, Agway research has gone a step farther It has demonstrated that different strains of the same breed of commercial layers have different nutrient requirements The trials show that production can be improved with a feeding program that's tailored to the needs of a particular strain

When three commercial strains of the same breed were tested on two Agway feeding programs, here's what happened

PERCENT HEN-DAY PRODUCTION DURING A 392-DAY LAYING TRIAL

Agway Feeding Program	Same Breed, Commercial Strain: A	B	C
I	67 3	65 5	72.3
II	71.5	70 7	70 0

A little pencil work makes it apparent that the difference in total production in one of today's large commercial houses can add up to thousands of dozens of eggs during the laying period of a given strain

Agway research is continuing to develop feeding programs that provide, without excesses, the nutrients your favorite strain needs for optimum production Such research will help you, as a commercial producer, bring more eggs to market at a cost that will provide you a greater return

If you would like to know more about the possibilities of increased production through a tailored Agway feeding program, contact your Agway Poultry Enterprise Serviceperson As a first step, call your local Agway store

Agway opens new store near Allentown

SYRACUSE, N.Y. - Agway Inc., headquartered here, has made a commitment to the farm equipment community for Lehigh Valley and areas served by its John Deere dealership at Wescosville, Pa.

The Board of Directors of Agway, Inc., voted for the financing of a new farm equipment facility at Chapman, just outside of Allentown, Pa.

The Board approved a $375,000 facility with a total of 18,000 square feet consisting of a service shop, parts room, offices and display floor. The building will be located on land now owned by Agway at Chapman Road and Ruppsville Road at Chapman. Plans are to have the building completed in time for a Spring grand opening. The construction of the steel building is under the direction of Abram S. Horst, Inc., of New Holland, Pa.

With approval of the new facility, the Board also approved the forming of a new corporation under the name of Chapman Equipment Center, Inc., with common stock owned by Agway Inc., and preferred stock being made available to farmer customers. The area is being canvassed for sale of the preferred stock.

In March of 1960, Lehigh Farm Bureau Cooperative Assn. started to handle the John Deere line of equipment as a sub dealer of I. G. Rosenberger. In 1962 John Deere and the Farm Bureau Cooperative at Chapman entered into their first contract. In 1965, with the merger of Farm Bureau into Agway Inc., the first contract was signed with Agway Inc. A new contract has now been signed in the name of Chapman Equipment Center, Inc.

The new Chapman Equipment Center, Inc. will employ approximately 20 people to serve the many customers of Agway. Hal Keeler has been appointed manager of the center. Keeler has been associated with the farm equipment industry since 1947 at dealer level, company zone level, company supervisor level, company store level and dealer management level.

State committee appointed

HARRISBURG - The President of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts recently concurred in the appointment of a State Reclamation Committee to advise the Soil Conservation Service on the new Rural Abandoned Mine Program.

"The Committee will recommend to SCS which projects on a priority basis will receive Federal Funding this year," says PACD President, William Lange, "it also will serve to open up channels of communication among land owners, conservation district officials, and federal and state reclamation agencies who are involved in the program.

"First on the committee list will be projects that will protect public, health, safety, general welfare, and property from extreme danger caused by passed coal mining practices," Lange pointed out.

RAMP, a voluntary program, will help participating landowners develop and apply plans for the reclamation, conservation, and development of eligible lands affected by past coal mining. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service will provide technical and cost sharing assistance.

Pennfield adds fresh chickens

LANCASTER – Pennfield Corporation, Lancaster, announced they will begin marketing fresh whole chickens and chicken parts under the "Pennfield Farms" name.

The chicken will be processed by the Grimes Poultry Processing Corporation, a wholly-owned subsidiary of Pennfield located in Fredericksburg. The Grimes firm had previously sold the products under its own brand name.

In announcing the new brand, a Pennfield official pointed out that great emphasis will be placed on what he called the "Grimes quality tradition."

"Grimes Poultry Processing Corporation has been in operation for over 40 years, and has always been a pioneer in its field," the spokesman said. "They originated 'assembly line' cut-up processing back in the late thirties and have earned an industry-wide reputation for skill and precision that will be most beneficial in promoting our new Pennfield Farms brand."

Present plans call for Pennfield Farms Chicken to be marketed throughout Pennsylvania, as well as the rest of the north Atlantic region. Responsible for processing Pennfield Farms Chicken and distributing and marketing it in these areas are Dr. Willie Payne, general manager, and Fred Pontz III, head of marketing.

The new brand will be supported by a comprehensive merchandising and advertising program, which is currently under development. The program will include a variety of point-of-purchase materials for grocer use (including rail and case strips, wing tags and case dividers), television commercials and newspaper ads.

Another development of the merchandising and advertising program is the new Pennfield Farms Chicken slogan: "Try some Dutch Country tenderness!"

Champion steer sells for record price of $6.50

HARRISBURG – Prices soared last Friday at the Farm Show as the auctions of champions got underway.

Steve Long's champion steer, "Mooose", an Angus-Chianina crossbred weighing 1,210 pounds, sold for a new record of $6.50 per pound and was bought by Danny George, owner of George's Foodliner Market in Bethlehem. George has been attending the Farm Show auctions for 17 years, buying over $500,000 worth of top animals.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Groff, Elizabethtown, stand with Janice Kaylor, and her lightweight champion steer which they purchased at the Pa. Farm Show sale last Friday. Groff, owner of Groffs Meats, Inc., is the third generation in his family to be involved in the butchering business.

Acme Markets, Inc., represented by Trainor Wilson, Jr., vice president of meat procurement and merchandising, purchased the reserve champion steer at the Farm Show last Friday.

At $6.50, "Moose" sold for 35 cents more than last year's grand champion and ten cents per pound higher than the old record price set at $6.40 in 1976. Steve finds himself $7,865 richer as a result.

The reserve grand champion steer, a 1,160 pound Red Limousin crossbred named "Fire," owned by Robert Livingston of Davidsburg Road, Dover, York County, was sold to Acme Markets of Philadelphia for $3.25 per pound, or a total of $3,770.

The grand champion market lamb, a 155-pounder, consigned by Julie Kuzemchak, Pleasant Gap, Centre County, sold for $9 a pound at the annual Market Lamb Sale held at the 63rd Farm Show. The grand champion, a 222-pounder, exhibited by Robert Bishop, of Homer City, Indiana County, brought $19.00. The record price of $19.50 was set at last year's Farm Show. Buyer of the grand champion was the Hatfield Packing Company of Hatfield, Montgomery County.

Hams, bacon and pork shoulders are usually cured so they don't require freezing.

xxx

Recommended freezer storage times for pork are: chops, three to four months; roasts, four to eight months; fresh sausage, one to two months; variety meats, one month or less and cured hams, one to two months.

xxx

Tender cuts of meat are best cooked with dry heat such as broiling, roasting and panbroiling. But you can tenderize less tender cuts of meat by cooking them with moist heat, which softens the connective tissue.

The Hersheys are multi-talented —LANCASTER — The Eby Hershey family isn't farming, but they come close to it with a number of their activities. All five members have a respect for living on the land and earning a living from the soil.

The Hershey family consists of Eby, a mechanic for C.B. Hoober, Inc., Intercourse; Marlene, his wife; daughters Brenda and Sherri and son Bernie.

Reared on a farm, Eby says he grew up adapting to the rigors of hard work. His memories of yesterday include milking cows by hand and carrying water each morning before school. Today, he says, he enjoys the contact he has with farmers as a mechanic for the Hoober firm. In addition, he is involved in tractor pulling.

Mrs. Hershey and her daughters are known to many in the area as "Marlene Hershey and the Hersheyettes. They have recorded some of their songs and they continue to make regular television appearances on WGAL-TV. Their program, "Hearthside Hymns," is a gospel program which airs on alternate Sundays at 10:15 a.m.

Born and raised on a farm, Mrs. Hershey, like her husband, has fond memories of her childhood and teenage years. But it's music that really keeps the family humming today. Marlene recorded her first album, "Joyful Gospel Gems" in 1967. Eight additional albums have followed since then. When they're in concert, Eby provides the "behind the scenes" techniques to make sure equipment is asembled and functioning properly.

Drawn to music at a very young age, Mrs. Hershey says her daughters are following suit. Brenda, 17; and Sherri, 14; are both enthusiastic and active members of the singing group. Bernie, 6, likes to work with tools, trying to create things, she says.

Their singing talents have taken them to the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, the 1976 Farm Fest at Lake Crystal, Minn., and several other states. They do most of their singing in this area, however, and are available for local engagements.

The Hershey family consists of Eby and Marlene, sitting; their 6-year old son, Bernie; and daughters Brenda and Sherri.

Kreider, Long receive Lancaster Co. FFA awards

By JOAN LIESAU

MILLERSVILLE - Two 16 year old youths from the Penn Manor High School have earned distinguished awards from their Lancaster County Red Rose FFA chapter. Tim E. Kreider has been honored as the Lancaster County Red Rose Star Agri-businessman, and Gordon Long has been selected as Lancaster County Red Rose Star Farmer.

Tim is the son of Wilmer and Joanne Kreider, Washington Boro R1. He has worked for his father's business, W.E. Kreider Quality Meats, Inc. for many years. Tim felt he won the award for the records he kept on the hours he worked and the "jobs I've done". Tim's main responsibility were to sell products including lunchmeats, salads and cheeses, and cleaning up equipment. The agri-businessman works Friday and Saturday nights, and throughout the Summer.

Tim has served as assistant sentinal and County delegate. He has participated in his chapter's pin orders, hunting chart, and citrus fruit committees. Tim's FFA projects include hog fattening, steers, and two acres of corn. He has raised 67 cross bred hogs in his FFA career along with six steers. Tim has sold all his steers to his father's meat business.

If Tim had to explain farming to a non-farmer, he said he would tell them that "it's a lot of hard work and there is a problem getting starting in farming because you have to buy equipment and land which is expensive."

Tim said his goals are "to work in agri-business and make enough money to set up a partnership with my father on the farm." And that he would "continue with an agribusiness career in the meat area," until that time.

Gordon Long, the son of Howard and Betty Long, Columbia R3, said that he had to keep records on his projects and be very active on chapter committees to compete for the Red Rose Star Farmer award.

Coming from a 93 acre farm, Gordon has served as the junior ag treasurer, assistant reporter and he is presently serving as the Manor FFA Chapter vice president. Gordon has been chairman of the Lancaster hog show, Farm City Week, and Starbicide committees. He has won the chain gilt and chain market hogs.

Gordon has many FFA projects. Raising tobacco because "it's a good cash crop" Gordon plants four acres. He raises two acres of corn which goes into feed for his livestock projects. He has raised six steers in his FFA career. He explained they were mostly cross breds. At shows, Gordon said he placed about the middle of his class and on up.

Swine is Gordon's main livestock interest. He has raised 60 market hogs altogether in FFA. He uses Duroc-Yorkshire cross breds because they are "good for showing, good for growing." He also has a swine breeding project which presently includes 18 sows and two boars, all registered purebreds, either Yorkshires or Durocs. At the 1978 Solanco Fair, Gordon exhibited the champion sow and litter in the FFA contest.

Gordon says he has made money on his projects through "prize money at shows, good management, and the right kind of stock."

Gordon stressed record keeping, if he were to give advice to someone starting out in the farming business. "Keep them up to date and never fall behind in them" he said. "Make sure they're

SPERRY NEW HOLLAND

Farmers will need increase

HARRISBURG - With farm operating costs currently running 11 per cent higher than a year ago, the inflation rate being predicted at somewhere between 7 and 10 per cent, and an OPEC oil price increase near 15 per cent, U.S. farmers will have to get 1979 price increases running from 12 to 15 per cent just to stand still incomewise, Reuben L. Johnson said at a luncheon session at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union on January 16.

Head of the Farmers Union's Washington legislative staff, Johnson told the convention, being held at the Penn Harris motel, that USDA economists are saying that "1979 may be a carbon copy of 1978 for the American farmer."

"While there was some improvement for some commodities in 1978, it was still a difficult year overall and it is hardly reassuring for farmers to hear that 1979 will be no better," Johnson said.

The Farmers Union official pointed out that dairymen have been somewhat better off than other commodities because they had a mandatory 80 per cent of parity support level, which escalated along with rising costs.

"However, the legislative authority for 80 per cent of parity supports expires this year and the support level could drop as low as 75 per cent of parity next October 1," Johnson explained. "We will work for a support level at 90 per cent of parity because we think it is fully justified by dairy farm operating costs."

Johnson said that Farmers Union and several other farm organizations would push for adoption of a proposed "National Agricultural Bargaining Act," which would require handlers of agricultural commodities to bargain in good faith with associations of farmers on prices of farm commodities and terms of sale.

Farmers Union will also press for approval of a proposed "Fair Meat Trading Act," which would provide for licensing of commercial meat pricing reporting services and seek to assure that such prices are honestly reported and not subject to manipulation to the detriment of farmers and consumers.

"It is now clear that more than 70 per cent of the meat supply is being formula-priced, either on the basis of the 'Yellow Sheet' or the 'Meat Sheet,' and that these prices reflect as little as two per cent of the livestock slaughter volume," he reported.

Vegetable growers to meet

NEWARK, Del. - We've just rounded the corner on a new year, and it's none too soon for commercial vegetable growers to be making some decisions. For this reason, the first annual meeting of the Delaware Vegetable Growers Association will be held January 29-30 at the Sheraton Inn in Dover.

The meeting will cover marketing, packaging, variety selection, and crop production techniques. There will also be an industry Trade Show.

There are two key decisions a growers needs to make now - what to grow, and how to market his crop. Success in terms of a profitable 1979 depends largely on how well these decisions are made, says University of Delaware Extension Vegetable Specialist Dr. Mike Orzolek.

If you're planning to raise vegetables commercially this year, the most critical choice you have to make is where to market your crop. You have several options. Each has its advantages - as well as its drawbacks.

If you decide to compete for fresh-market sales, there are several alternatives, depending on the volume of production, points out the specialist. Wholesale produce centers such as those in Baltimore, Philadelphia or New York offer certainty of sales, but at a market price based on packaging and grade of product. The price you get at these centers can be quite variable and at times won't result in a net profit to you.

Farmers' auction blocks such as those in Laurel, Del., or Vineland, N.J., are another possibility. These usually bring higher prices for vegetables, but sale of a crop isn't always a certainty, cautions Orzolek. Field run loads of vegetables and/or small volumes can be sold at the auction block. But the price you get will be based on grade and quality. For the grower who is a gambler, auction sales can be quite profitable during the year.

Your other alternative is to sell to roadside markets or at your own roadside market. Prices will be similar to those at auctions or wholesale markets, but volume may be variable from week to week. This could leave you with a surplus and the need to quickly find another outlet.

A grower also has the option of contracting with a processor for one or more vegetables. The contract guarantees you an income from the crop, but at a fixed price per unit. Both high yields and extensive acreage are needed for net profit under this arrangement.

The second decision you have to make now is what vegetable to produce. Knowledge of national acreage, demand and price may help you with this decision. If you're already locked into the production of a certain crop because of investments in equipment and the availability of labor, your main concern may be deciding just how much of that crop to plant this year.

These marketing and cropping decisions can be tough ones to make, admits the vegetable specialist. For this reason he urges all growers and potential growers in Delaware and adjoining states to attend the Delaware Vegetable Growers Association meeting.

For further information, those interested in attending the two-day meeting should contact Dr. Mike Orzolek at the University of Delaware Substation in Georgetown, Del. (302-856-5250).

In Lancaster County

When the livestock came, veterinarians followed

By KENDACE BORRY

MANHEIM — Have you ever wondered who the first veterinarian was to practice in Lancaster County? Or how different veterinary practices within the county were started? Within the boundries of the "Garden Spot of the World" there is a unique history of the men who have made it their life work to attend to the miseries of animals.

Now there is a new book out, The History of Veterinary Medicine in Lancaster County, that was written by Loy Cuyler Awkerman, V.M.D. and inspired by the Conestoga Veterinary Medical Association, that tells the history of both past and present animal doctors in Lancaster County.

Covering a wealth of subjects, the book starts with the historical background of the subject.

Awkerman tells of the start of the colony of Pennsylvania, and mentions the first animals to arrive on Lancaster County soil--horses and oxen. The first animals brought in the county for food were pigs. They were followed by chickens, then sheep, and finally cows.

Then there were no trained veterinarians, just neighbors who were "handy" with animals.

The first trained veterinarian to enter the area was the "horse doctor", a man who would usually live in the cities and took care of the riding and carriage horses.

According to the book, it was Dr. Benjamin Rush who convinced the University of Pennsylvania that it should adopt a program in training veterinarians.

One of the first veterinarians on record in Lancaster County was Dr. John Breneman (1813-1877) of Mount Joy. He was the great grandfather of the late Dr. J. Nelson Newcomer. Dr. Breneman rode horse back around to area farms where he cared for the needs of horses and cows.

Written in a smooth, easy-to-read style, Awkerman traces with both words and pictures the flow of history that brings him to tell about the present day vets serving the Lancaster County area. He includes a special section on the Conestoga Veterinary Medical Association, and covers changes in the veterinary situations both before and after the World Wars as well as other related subjects.

Dr. Awkerman stated that his book is really about the veterinarians who "worked day and night for years with little or no time off, and whose dedication and integrity were such that people still refer to them in revered and nostalgic tones." These men "built a strong and

Dr. Loy Awkerman, a veterinarian in Lancaster County, has recently finished writing a book delving into the history of Lancaster County veterinarians. The book is now available to anyone interested in reading more about the men who travel from farm to farm treating animals.

OPEN PIT MANURE PUMPS
Slash Manure Storage Agitation Time

OUTPERFORMS ALL OTHERS:

Nesseth Open Pit Pumps are years ahead of competitive models. With pumping capacities of 3500 to 6000 gallons per minute, no single pump can break up thick crusted manure and turn it into pumpable slurry as fast as a Nesseth. You'll save time and you'll save fuel, but just as important — you'll save money because you don't need two units (one for agitation, one for pumping) when you buy Nesseth. A single unit does it all — and Nesseth offers a choice of six models so you can select the model best suited to your needs. Choose from either 3 point hitch or trailer mount, 20" or 24" impeller, 540 or 1000 rpm PTO operation.

Upcoming Ephrata farmer program features dairy calf hutches

EPHRATA - The Ephrata Adult Farmer program will sponsor an educational meeting on Housing Dairy Calves in Calf Hutches, on Tuesday, January 23, 1979, at 7:45 p.m. in the agriculture classroom of the Ephrata High School. Slides will be shown of hutches currently being used in the Ephrata area. A plywood calf hutch built by Moses Good of Mount Joy R3 will be on display, along with a "Fiberdome" calf hutch distributed by Terre Hill Silo Company.

According to an article in the February 25, 1978 Hoard's Dairyman entitled "Hutches Help These Dairymen Save More Calves," outdoor calf hutches have been around for a long time, yet it has only been in the last five years that their use has really caught hold, particularly in the Midwest. Hutches were originally thought of as an inexpensive alternative to farmers who couldn't afford better kinds of housing. Many farmers are now choosing to use hutches instead of more conventional forms of housing. According to Hoard's Dairyman; "They have brought an end to heavy calf losses on scores of farms, especially those farms where poor facilities had resulted in respiratory troubles." Surveys of farmers in the Ephrata area seem to support these claims. The meeting is open to the general public and refreshments will be served. For any additional information, contact Jack Shrimplin or Charles Ackley at the Ephrata High School, 717-733-7961 (ext. 261).

Following the noon luncheon, a panel of agribusiness representatives will look at the influence of government in agriculture. Panelists include Joyce Bupp, secretary to Penn's Agri-Women, Gary T. Knisely, Esq., corporate counsel to Hanover Brands, Inc., John T. Pitzer, Adams County fruit grower and past president of the Pennsylvania Farmers Association and Dr. Norman F. Reber, former editor of Pennsylvania Farmer.

Wrap-up speaker will be Dennis Gaab, a congressional liaison with the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

The session will begin at 9:30 a.m. with coffee and welcoming remarks, and adjourn at 2:45 p.m. Tickets are $7.50 and are available from the York Area Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 1229, York, Pa. 17405, or call 717/854-3814. Reservations deadline is Monday, January 22.

Manure management meeting discusses options

By JOAN LIESAU

BART—Managing manure in a better way to keep streams clean was the main message at the Octorara Watershed annual meeting held on January 19 at the Bart-Colerain School.

The Department of Environmental Resources (DER) is concerned with keeping the manure out of the streams. "It is typical in Lancaster County to push manure off in piles with no barriers between the piles and the stream" said District Conservationist Warren Archibald. "When manure is spread on the snow, it looses some of it's nitrogen values" he said, "and it melts and is carried into the streams."

Archibald described different alternatives to the daily hauling system. Included in his discussion were earthen-bank storage, covered manure storage and dams for separation of precipitation in open storage.

"A lot of pollution problems come when you are getting the manure on the fields" Archibald said. He cited several examples, such as silt, manure and dirt washing onto roads and streams in heavy rains. "One of the better practices that will reduce manure loss 75 per cent is by using contour strips" he said. "When spreading daily, spread steeper slopes around November." Other areas, "in the center of the strips, should be spread at this time of the year, rather than the closest patches to the barn."

Skidders will break over the strips if you do not have a good outlet of diversion for the extra water. An example of diversion may be a grass water way. Archibald suggested "For those who want to get to continuous corn, to terrace your farm." The terrace should have a pipe outlet terrace which is higher than a normal terrace. When this outlet fills up, it will drain completely dry within a 24 hour period. The water is then piped down across the hill to a stream or creek. "An advantage to this system is that you are giving the water a little longer chance to get off the fields" Archibald explained.

A panel of three men, Bob Kaufman, Dale Herr and Kenneth Skyles, discussed their systems with the group.

Herr of Kirkwood R1, uses an earthen bank storage. He said the ASCA worked with him to plan his manure storage facility. With his free stall barn, Herr gets a "pretty heavy slurry" from all the wastes. "Before I hauled it everyday." Herr said he was very pleased with his new system. He can back right down into it when he is ready to spread.

Bob Guhl of W. & J. Dairy Sales, Oxford R2, gave a presentation on the "Acorn" manure managing system.

This system pumps the manure up from the bottom rather than putting it on top of the already existing pile. This keeps the crust which forms on top hard. The crust keeps most of the nutrients in, while keeping flies from breeding and virtually no odor.

"When your smelling manure, your smelling dollars from the nitrogen" Guhl said.

Order 2 dairy farmers to receive $11.42 for milk

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Dairy farmers supplying milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during December will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $11.42 per hundred pounds or 24.6 cents per quart. Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson, who announced December's price, also stated that the uniform farm price was $11.54 per hundredweight in November 1978 and $9.83 per hundredweight in December 1977. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

Sour notes sung to dairy farmers

By DIETER KRIEG

QUARRYVILLE — The year 1979 will be a good one for dairymen, says Inter-State's general manager Dr. James Honan. But, like other observers of the dairy industry, he cautions dairy farmers that the overall situation is not as bright as it seems. Speaking here Thursday at an IMPCO membership meeting, Honan said that industry leaders are presently very much concerned about the possibility of more dairy imports and an encroachment on the rights of farmer cooperatives. He is not alone in sounding worried. Earlier in the week, Tony Dechant of the National Farmers Union made nearly identical pleas (see page 99), as did a magazine editor (see page 118).

Dr. James E. Honan

Honan said that according to Inter-State's economist, Dr. Paul Hand, the price for Class I milk will probably be at its highest for the year next month. That price has been determined to be $13.44 per hundredweight.

"Our big concern this year would be whatever might happen to cheese consumption," Honan remarked. He noted that consideration is being given in trade talks to allow 60 million more pounds of cheese into the country. Honan suggests strongly that farmers unite in a vigorous, properly timed campaign to oppose such legislation. He says the cheese shipments would be a trade off for other products.

"Another serious concern are the recommendations on Antitrust Laws, specifically as they relate to farmer cooperatives," Honan warned. A final study on the matter is to arrive on President Carter's desk early next week and the repercussions could be profound. If the recommendations become law, they "would drastically harm the opportunities cooperatives still have to improve their marketing power," the Inter-State chief said.

In closing his remarks, Honan encouraged the gathered farmers to become more familiar with hauling rates. The cooperative is attempting streamline repetitious routes in order to increase efficiency. A new hauling rate structure is planned.

In officer elections, the following results were announced:

J. Ray Ranck was elected president of the Christiana local, with Charles L. Rohrer filling the vice presidency. C. Nevin Hershey will serve as secretary-treasurer. Delegates are Ivan Bowman, Jr., Jacob L. Kreider, and Roy C. Neff. Alternate delegate positions were won by James W. Bowman, Charles L. Groff, and C. Melvin Neff.

In the Quarryville local, R. Edwin Harnish was elected president, while A. Dale Herr got the nod for vice president. P. Robert Wenger will serve as secretary-treasurer. Delegates are Robert C. Groff, Robert G. Hershberger, A. Dale Herr, Willis B. Krantz, and G. Preston Lefevre. The alternate slots were filled by David G. Byers, Richard P. Maule, David H. Myer, Kenneth M. Rutt, and P. Robert Wenger.

Donald L. Ranck will serve on the Edgar M. Herr Hauling Committee, and Paul H. Krantz will fill a similar post on the Testerman and Rineer Hauling Committee.

Presiding at the Thursday afternoon meeting was Karl W. Herr, District 12 president.

Litman, Decker win horse pulling contests

By KENDACE BORRY

HARRISBURG — Still one of the biggest crowd pleasers at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, the teams of draft horses pulled and strained last Wednesday night to determine which pair of horses could pull the most weight the best distance.

Winner of the lightweight division was Vance Litman, Claysville R3, from Washington County.

He competed with a mixed team, his lead horse Tom, being a six year old grey Percheron, and his offside horse Bob, a five year old sorrel Belgian. The two horses weighed in at 3166 pounds.

He told that the two horses are the only ones he has on the farm, and he uses them at home for light work. This competition was only the second contest in which the two horses had ever pulled together. He stated that he started to prepare and work the horses for this contest in October.

Their winning weight pulled was 9000 pounds, which the team dragged a total of 16 feet, 9 inches.

Litman is a veteran of horse pulling contests at the Farm Show, having had the lightweight champions in 1961, 1962, 1964, 1969, 1975, and 1976 In 1968, he showed both the lightweight and the heavyweight champions in the horse pulling.

Winner in the heavyweight division of the horse pulling was Robert W. Decker, Garrett, Somerset County. This was his first championship in the horse pulling contest.

He used a Belgian team of horses, and related that the two had never pulled in a contest together before.

Having a combined weight of 4600 pounds, his lead horse Buck, a six year old, and the offside horse, Bud, a seven year old, pulled 8500 pounds a total 12 feet, 11 inches, narrowly beating the second placed team by a distance of three inches.

Judge for the event was Paul Wass, Indiana, Pa., who stated that he thought the horse pulling was an "outstanding contest, with some of the top teams in the state competing." Although he noted that winners and losers were chosen throughout the evening's performance, he thought that all teams were winners in one of the finest contests he had judged.

Second place in the lightweight division went to Al Dodge, Jr., Little Meadows R1; third was awarded to Delbert Iseman, Cherry Tree; fourth place went to Tom Brown, Stahlstown; and fifth was taken by the Campbell Brothers, West Sunbury R2.

In the heavyweight division, Leo H. Zandi, Sheffield, took second place; Stan Lepley and Son, Meyersdale R4, placed third; Lynn Wagner, Jersey Shore R4, received fourth; and Al Dodge, Jr. placed fifth.

LT vaccine available

HARRISBURG - Laryngotracheitis, a lethal respiratory virus infection of poultry, was a widespread devastating disease of poultry flocks last Winter in southeastern Pennsylvania. This Fall and Winter there have been four confirmed LT outbreaks as of now. Two of these have occurred in small noncommercial flocks. To protect the small poultry flock and the spread of this costly disease, annual vaccination is recommended, particularly in southeastern Pennsylvania.

Technical information on vaccines, as well as supplies, may be obtained from Dr. Wilson L. Miller, a veterinarian who specializes in poultry, whose office is in Rohrerstown, 717-393-7016. Another source is New Holland Supply, Box 184, New Holland, 17557 717-354-4001.

In addition, the Poultry Diagnostic Laboratory at Kennett Square, has announced that they are now providing LT vaccine free for use in noncommercial poultry flocks. The vaccine, LT-IVAX, is being made available at no cost by American Scientific Laboratories to help prevent LT outbreaks. It may be obtained from:

The Poultry
Diagnostic Laboratory,
New Bolton Center
School of Veterinary Medicine
University of Pennsylvania
382 W. Street Road
Kennett Square, Pa., 19348
(Phone 215-/444-5800
extension 219)

Veterinarians at this laboratory have suggested that those who would like free LT vaccine to protect their flock, should contact their feed man, local poultry industry representative, poultry veterinarian or the above laboratory and they will be glad to help you obtain the vaccine and provide any additional information.

right and do your records neatly" he added.

Gordon said he "would like to go into full time swine breeding" after graduation. He and his father are in the process of planning a farrowing house, which will hopefully be built in the near future.

Only six per cent of the Lancaster County FFA membership could qualify for the Star Farmer and Star Agri-businessman degree. Tim and Gordon will both receive $100 award towards a trip to the National FFA Convention in Kansas City, Mo., along with the plaques they received. There was a total of 62 County winners.

The top FFA members competing for the Star Farmer award included Peggy Mullen, Elizabethtown chapter; Glenn Shenk, Manheim chapter; Christian Herr, Clositer chapter; Don Brubaker, Garden Spot chapter; Ray Good, Cloister chapter; Gary Eberly, Solanco chapter; and Doug Snavely of the Warwick chapter.

Competing for the top award of Star Agri-businessman were: Ken Long, Elizabethtown chapter; Dennis Shelly, Manheim chapter; Gerald Martin, Grassland chapter; Timothy Gockley, Cloister chapter and Mike Ruhl of the Brownstown FFA chapter.

Judges of the Star Farmer award were Abe Fisher, manager of Jet Age Farms, Paradise, and Edgar Stoefz, head of the overseas division of the Mennonite Central Committee. Judging the Star Agri-business contest were Richard Blouch, former agriculture teacher, and Don Bidler, salesman for C.B. Hoober, Intercourse. The contest was sponsored by the Lancaster County Red Rose FFA.

FFA'ers parents honored

HARRISBURG — When the Pennsylvania Association of FFA conducted its 50th annual Mid-Winter Convention here last week, one of the highlights was the recognition of parents who have had three or more of their children win the Keystone Degree. Five such families from eastern Pennsylvania were among those honored. They were:

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde W. Martin of East Earl who sent three sons to the vo-ag program at Garden spot High School. Nelson graduated in 1972, LaVern in 1976, and Clifford is currently a senior.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Moyer of Lebanon, parents of Harold, a 1969 graduate of Cedar Crest High School; Ray, 1976; and Dean, who will graduate this Spring.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Smoker of Stevens also have three sons who have won the Keystone Degree. They are Jay, a 1969 gradute of Ephrata High School; Marlin, 1973; and Kevin, who is currently a senior.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Weiler, also of Stevens, had their son Melvin earn the Keystone Degree in 1974, followed by John in 1977 and Mark in 1979.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl I. Wenger of Myerstown, parents of Floyd, Larry, and David. David is a senior at Eastern Lebanon County High School. His older brothers received their degrees in 1969 and 1970, respectively.

Pork producers unhappy with waiver

DES MOINES, Iowa - The National Pork Producers Council has asked that the Carter Adminstration not reinstate a waiver on countervailing duties on canned hams coming from the Economic Common Market countries in the wake of increased subsidies on Danish hams. The Council, representing 80,000 pork producers, also asked that the Treasury Department begin collecting the duty immediately.

The waiver had been the result of earlier discussion between the U.S. and Danish governments.

NPPC President John Soorholtz, Melborne, Iowa, in letters to President Carter and Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, also suggested possible implementation of a countervailing duty for canned hams and pork imported into this country from Poland. The suggestion, he says, is made in view of the current imbalance of trade as it pertains to the financial situation of the U.S.

"U.S. pork producers," Soorholtz says, "produce pork without help of government subsidy and are willing to compete with anyone on this basis. However, to waive countervailing duties on subsidized hams subjects the U.S. producer to unfair competition from other countries.

"If," he concludes, "the European Common Market nations feel a subsidy is necessary for their pork production, possibly we should consider sending our pork products to these countries."

CUSTOM BUILT CALF HUTS

MADE TO ORDER

Build a separate pen in front of each calf. Space each pen and calf far enough apart from the next unit to keep each calf separated from its neighbor. This isolation of each unit is very important . . . It helps prevent the spread of infectious diseases.

Straw or other suitable bedding is used for the floor. The calf is a proven design that provides a dry, draft-free shelter for the animal. The result . . . a much healthier calf!

Dairy meeting set

NEW HOLLAND - The Garden Spot Adult Farmer Program will sponsor an educational meeting on feeding dairy cattle on January 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the agriculture classroom of the Garden Spot High School.

The program of this first session, the first of two, will be highlighted by a round-table discussion featuring several of the top producers in the area, Curt Akers and Bob Book from Lancaster County, Andy Stoltzfus from Berks County, and Herm Stebbins from York County. They will discuss their feeding programs and answer quesions. In addition, Tim Horn, nutritionist from Pennfield Corp. will discuss the use of Selenium and Sodium Bicarbonate in dairy rations.

The second session will be held on February 6 and will feature a look at the management of total mixed rations and the use of selective feeders. Speaker for that meeting will be Roy Brenneman, Feed Specialist from Agway.

Any interested dairyman may attend. For further information, one can contact Donald Robinson, adult farmer advisor, Eastern Lancaster County School District, 717-354-0480.

Custom sewing workshop to be held

MEDIA - The Penn State Extension Service has planned a workshop titled Custom Sewing 1 to introduce you to home sewing says Maryetta Duffner, Extension home economist.

In this workshop you will make an attractive dress which you will be proud to wear. The classes, held in the Toal Building Auditorium will be from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on January 31, February 7, 14, 21, 28, and March 7.

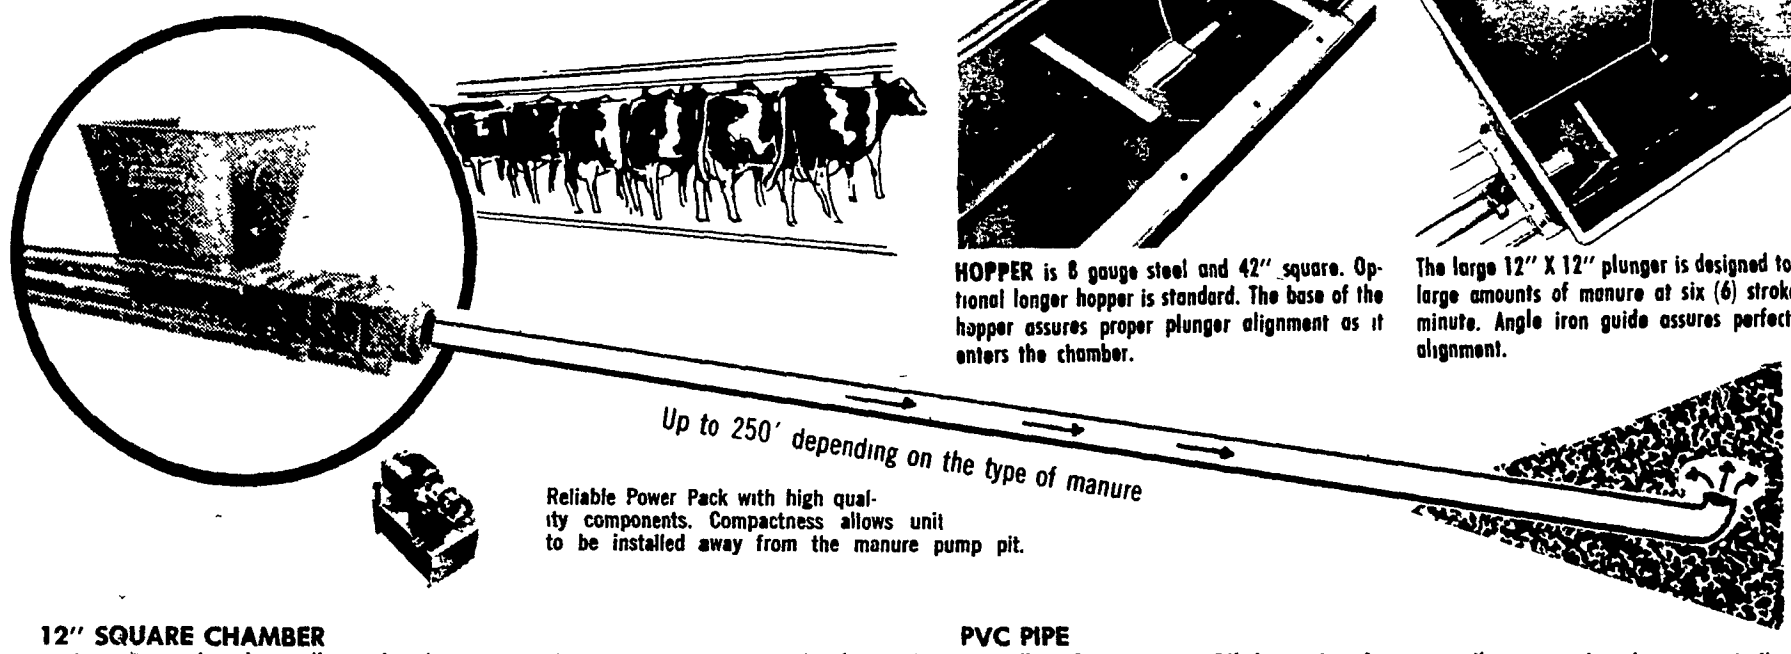
To register, send your check for $17 made payable to Home Economics Workshops to Maryetta Duffner, Toal Building, 2nd and Orange Streets, Media, Pa. 19063. Registrations are due by January 24. Include your name, address, phone number, and the name of the workshop you wish to attend. It is necessary to have a sewing machine as no actual sewing will be done at the workshop. They are demonstrations.

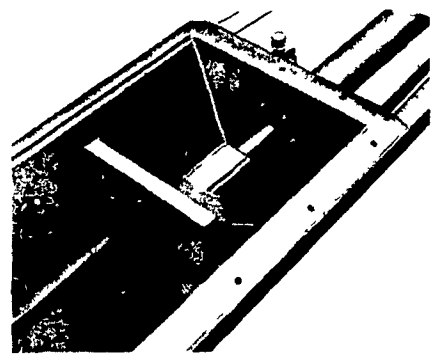
Home sewing can be a real creative outlet. In addition you can achieve a better fit as well as better workmanship than can be found in many commercial garments. Saving money can be an extra plus. The public is invited to attend. Parking is available at the County garage, Third and Olive Streets.

Agromatic TRANSFER PUMP

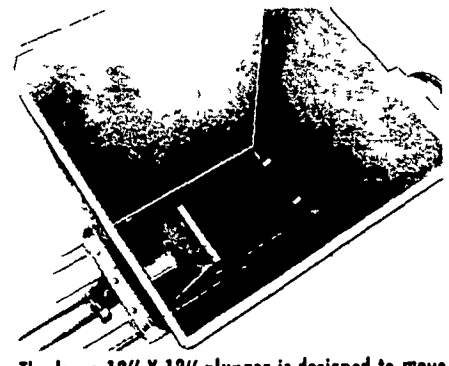
FROM STANCHION BARNS OR FREE STALLS AGROMATIC HANDLES THEM ALL

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE
HYDRAULIC MANURE PUMP





HOPPER is 8 gauge steel and 42" square. Optional longer hopper is standard. The base of the hopper assures proper plunger alignment as it enters the chamber.



The large 12" X 12" plunger is designed to move large amounts of manure at six (6) strokes per minute. Angle iron guide assures perfect head alignment.

Reliable Power Pack with high quality components. Compactness allows unit to be installed away from the manure pump pit.

12" SQUARE CHAMBER
- A square chamber allows for best gate design. To open completely, with minimum resistance, a round chamber doesn't allow the gate to open completely.

HEAD-SHAPE
- The head shears long straw or hay-filled manure with no need to chop or eliminate bedding.
- Slope-back head creates agitation with each stroke, preventing bridging.
- Works without needing to add water to manure.

PVC PIPE
- 10" PVC Pipe, not 12"; by going from a 12" square chamber to a 10" round, assures even pressure on manure to eliminate the chances for sediment to accumulate.

SERVICE
- By installing the pump in an accessible pit, all parts are easily inspected.

NOTE
- Design requires no Teflon seals which wear and allow back flow.
- Design has no brass bushing to manually rotate or replace.

It's a 'Long' way to a championship

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

Among all the awards presented at the Farm Show, the one which brings with it the most public attention is the grand champion junior beef show award. This year's winner was Steven Long, son of Samuel F. and Marian Long, Peach Botton, Lancaster County. He is a member of the Red Rose 4-H Beef and Lamb Club.

Steve's Chianina Angus was actually shown by his older brother, Sam. A closer look into the matter uncovered a family with an unusual background and a busy schedule. Any household with five of the six children being teenagers would most likely be very energetic and complicated, and the Longs are no exception. Sam and Marian Long have taken the supervision of their children as their responsibility and have worked with them both individually and as a part of a family unit to allow for individual interests.

Five years ago Marian, a widow with two sons, married Sam, a widower with two sons and two daughters. They moved to the 144 acre dairy farm in Drumore township the next year. After moving into the old stone house and getting the herd settled into the stanchion barn, they were kept busy with 4-H and FFA projects, high school sports events and local baseball team practices and games.

Sammy, the brother who showed the grand champion steer for Steve this year, graduated from Solanco last year and is presently working at home full time with his parents. Perhaps reflecting his father's interest in steers as a youth, Sammy has been involved with beef projects for many years. Although he never had a grand champion of his own, he has been an accomplished showman. At the 1977 Lancaster County round-up he received the Intell steer for being top showman. In 1957 his father had been top showman at the Farm Show. It is Sammy who purchases the beef animals for the various family members. So far this year he has found three of the four project animals needed.

Marian explained that Sammy has been to a number of sales this winter to purchase the three animals. The steers are expensive this year though and he has not settled on a fourth animal with the quality and for the price he would like. Sammy has bought two projects for himself-one for 4-H and one for FFA. The third is an FFA steer for Jeff. He needs a 4-H steer for Steve yet.

Jeff, a sophomore at Solanco, is an avid basketball player for the school team and has chosen to work wiht an FFA steer because it will be sold in September, leaving him relatively free for basketball in the late Fall and Winter.

Jeff's older brother, Wayne, an 18 year old senior at Solanco, is also a basketball enthusiast. Marian said of them, "They have been playing basketball for as long as I can remember!"

Wayne exchanges his uniform as a Varsity forward for Solanco High in the summertime for a Black Bear baseball uniform. The Black Bear team is one of several local teams which play their games on a diamond on the farm of Dr. Troop, a veteranarian and dairy farmer in East Drumore Township.

Wayne has been employed by Troop for four years to help out with the farming chores. Part of his job there is to milk every other weekend. The Saturday mornings after basketball games make short nights when he gets up to go milk. But Marian explained that he takes it in stride and "gets up and gets going." "In the summertime, he practically lives there (at Troops)."

Sammy has worked at home since graduating from high school. Wayne has worked for several years for Dr. Troop and Jeff worked this Summer for another neighbor. According to Marian none of the boys has really made up their minds what they will do in the future.

Steve, a sophomore who is several thousand dollars richer since the Farm Show, is also a sports participant. Unlike Wayne and Jeff who are basketball players, Steve is a wrestler for Solanco. As a junior varsity member this year he found that the January Farm Show dates ran in opposition to wrestling practice and games. In addition to the scheduling conflicts, his asthmatic reactions were evident even after only a brief two-hour visit Friday at the complex for the beef auction. Consequently, Steve plans to sell his 4-H project next year at round-up. "It's a chance he'll have to take by not going to the Farm Show if he is eligible and he will really miss not showing – he will hate to get out of that," Marian added.

The 4-H and FFA project animals are housed with several family beef animals, bringing the total number of animals to about 10 at any given time. Sam explained that all the beef animals are fed silage in the Spring and Summer up until August when they are individually consuming 10 pounds of corn silage a day. They are also fed home grown chop, ground ear corn and supplement – as much as they will eat.

"It is hard to tell what a steer will look like from one month to the next," Marian said. "Sometimes they looked really nice as calves but when they were older they had sagging backs or didn't put on the weight." From round-up in November to Farm Show time in January they can change a lot. You just never know! Steve's steer this year really put the weight on after round-up and filled out."

All of the boys' projects this past year weighed about the same by round-up at around 1150 pounds, Sam added.

The Longs also have two daughters – Sharon, 16, and Sheila, 8. Sharon is also a sophomore at Solanco and works parttime at the Presbyterian Home in Quarryville. "Until she went to work she was a real help to me in the house," Marian said. "She baked and cooked and helped out in the kitchen. Now she works from 3 to 6:30 p.m. four or five days a week and has little chance to help at home." Marian said that Sharon has no definite plans for the future as yet.

Sheila, the youngest in the household, is already taking part in the scheme of things in a household this busy. She clears the breakfast table before going to school and helps with the evening table too. "She would like to learn to cook but I haven't let her do much of that as yet," Marian added.

In addition to tending to the household chores of a sizeable family, Marian helps her husband milk the 57 cows in their herd and tends the calves. They have a mixed herd consisting of Holsteins, two Jerseys and one Brown Swiss.

Sam and Marian milk night and morning 4 a.m. to 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Jeff, Sammy and Steve do the barn clean-up chores and in the Summer, Sam and Sammy do most of the tractor and field work. They raise corn and hay for their dairy cows and beef animals they fatten.

Sam added that the family likes to roller skate when they can find the time and find enough of them home at the same time. They also enjoyed an above the ground swiming pool for many years. Plans are in the making to replace the old one with a new one this Summer.

Round-ups and Farm Shows make even more hectic schedules for farming families. Add sports enthusiasts and parttime jobs to the calendar and the family is going in several more directions. Cooperation and support go a long way in keeping this family going.

Homestead Notes

Last week at the Pennsylvania Farm Show, Sam, showing for his brother Steve, took the championship honors in the Junior Steer Show. Seen with Sam are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Long.

On being a farm wife

—And other hazards

By JOYCE BUPP

Driving down the road, past the shop and then the barn, I searched carefully to see if I would be caught returning.

Not a soul in sight. Maybe, if I hurried, I could sneak into the house without being spotted.

Could I cure it, this addiction of mine? Would I spend the rest of my life hiding brown bags in closets, stealthily snatching from the stash hidden under the beds and bureau drawers?

It began shortly after we were married, this compulsion, this weakness. Probably no man could ever understand the desire that drove me to so indulge.

But another woman might. In fact, I knew several afflicted with the same uncontrollable weakness.

My mother understands completely. So does my mother-in-law.

She had, in fact, just caught me in the act.

"Are you here again, too?" she whispered, glancing around the store to be sure we were unseen and undiscovered by a possible acquaintance.

We tried to be strong. We tried to bolster one another's weakening will power.

We failed.

She dashed for the cashier. I was right behind her.

"I'll take two yards of this bolt, one yard of this, and three of that one!"

Fabric-mania had done us in again.

If you also sew your own clothes, you'll understand, I know.

If you don't, just spend a day looking at and pricing the newest fashions. This year's latest high fashion designs, dubbed "the naked look," may drive you in desperation into becoming a fabric addict, too.

It's enough to make you want to invest your life savings in a yard-goods store.

There has to be one in every group You know, the guy (or gal) that manages to make a fool of himself by being the biggest klutz of all time I guess it was just inevitable that my turn would come up sooner or later.

It all started a couple of Saturdays ago, one that dawned bright and beautiful.

Six if us decided to take advantage of the day and go "river hopping"

River hopping is that unique art of exploring a small river or a large creek by simply hopping from rock to rock down the river.

Most girls prefer to river hop along the edge of the river, and my two girlfriends were more of that demure type, but the guys, true to form, rambled right out in the middle of the river, and struggled from rock to rock.

Now, as some of you may know, I have always been a tomboy, and much to my mother's chagrin, will probably always be so So when it came to a choice of staying with the girls where I probably belonged, or ranging out there in the thick of the slippery rocks and cold water, well, I just couldn't help myself

I went with the guys.

Everything was fine for awhile, I was quite proud of myself I kept up with those self-styled explorers and vaulted from boulder to ledge with the best of them Yessiree, I was showing those guys a thing or two.

Then I got sidetracked, watching this little whirlpool in a rock, and tracing the patterns that it made. The rest of the crew, my boyfriend included, ranged on, leaving me behind

About ten minutes later, I heard a shout, and looking up, saw the guys waving for me to watch my boyfriend try to bridge the river on an undersized tree branch. I couldn't see very well where I was so I skittered to another rock.

Still not satisfied with my view, I stretched up on my toes to see better what was happening

The rock I was standing on was covered with wet moss I didn't notice it at the time

The next thing I knew my feet flew up in the air and I went sailing into the water--that icy, cold, murky depth that instantly froze my blood

My friends all missed the action. They said one minute I was standing there and the next I wasn't I wished I could have kept it that way, but it was unbearably cold and I hurt

So I came shivering out of my Wintery bath, to stand chagrined and shaken before my unbelieving peers

Yes, there is always one in every crowd Sorry, gang

Next time I go river hopping it's going to be in the dead of Summer and I'll be wearing my bathing suit That will take care of that little problem

Meanwhile, anyhbody want to go ice skating with me?

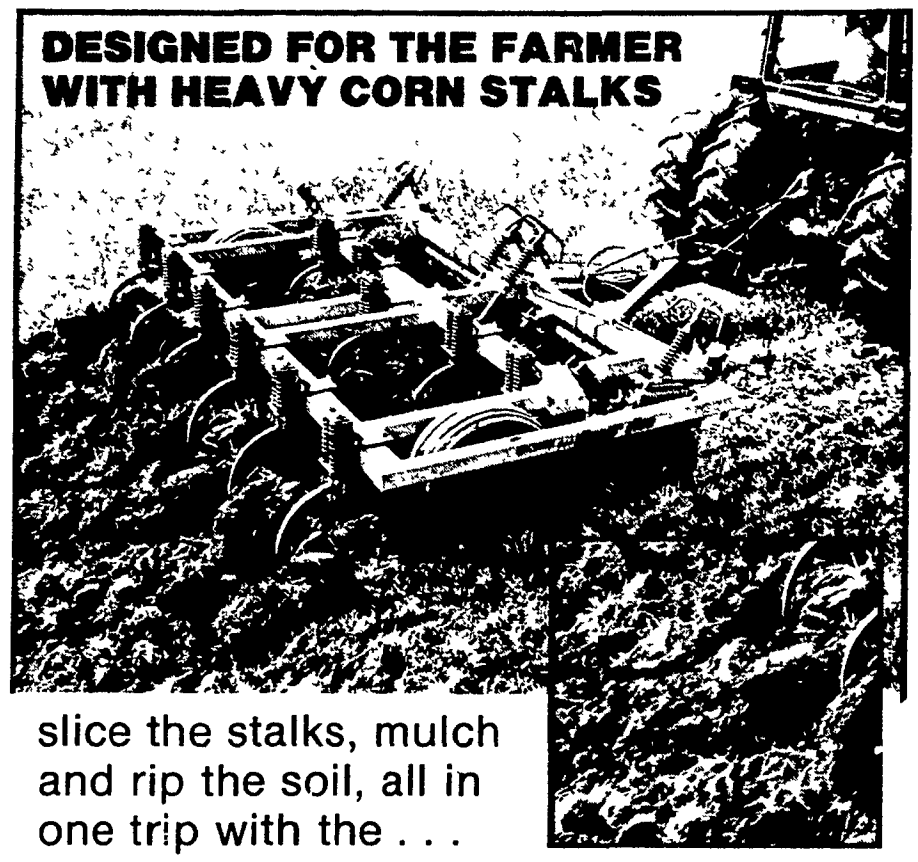
Sunflower Disc Harrows

MECKLEY'S OAKAOT (717) 758-3915 Herndon PA

DESIGNED FOR THE FARMER WITH HEAVY CORN STALKS



slice the stalks, mulch and rip the soil, all in one trip with the . . .

binkley WILBECK digger disc

A PROVEN CONCEPT OF MINIMUM TILLAGE

Now. .Binkley-Wilbeck digger disc. the heaviest, toughest, one-step tillage tool of this type available today! The digger disc performs well when conditions are too wet for a heavy disc and/or too trashy for a chisel plow, permitting virtually plug-free tillage immediately after fall harvest or early in the spring. Binkley-Wilbeck's digger disc slices the stalks and mixes the residue in the soil, leaving it in ridges that reduce erosion, allows your soil to mellow, and conserve valuable nutrients...All in one trip. The concept is proven

NEW EQUIPMENT IN STOCK:

11' Heavy offset disc with hyd leveling
14' Heavy offset disc with hyd leveling
7 Shank digger disc with trip shank

FARM EQUIPMENT

GOT TORQUE AMPLIFIER, CLUTCH AND PRESSURE PLATE PROBLEMS WITH YOUR IH TRACTORS?

There is a company in the West that has been rebuilding T.A. units for several years now and having excellent results. The basic reason for their success is the sprag clutch they use. In the areas where they have been selling, they even have IH dealers that use this unit almost entirely.

(1) They feel this sprag clutch is giving less problems than even IH's new beefed up unit because of the design of the sprags.

(2) This unit can be bought as individual parts which is many times all you need or as a complete renewed unit ready to set in your tractor.

(3) They have a warranty up to 2000 hrs., or 3 years . . . and . . .

(4) They don't cost any more and to most buyers they are costing less than from the big company. They offer same day shipment by UPS or Greyhound bus. They also have a program on rebuilt Dynalife clutches and pressure plates.

If you want more information write me and I will get the literature to you. Raymond B. Leaman, RD #1, Willow Street, Penna. 17584.

No-till farming: an option that's catching on

By CALVIN WETTSTEIN
County Agent
Flemington, N.J.

LANCASTER - No-till gained favor with many of our farmers back about eight or nine years ago because of several recognized advantages. One is that the organic matter on top of the soil would serve as a mulch, holding the soil in place, and maintaining soil moisture. Time-saving to a farmer, so essential in the Spring rush, was also considered to be an important advantage.

Harvesting is possible during wet spells, when normally tilled fields could just not support the equipment.

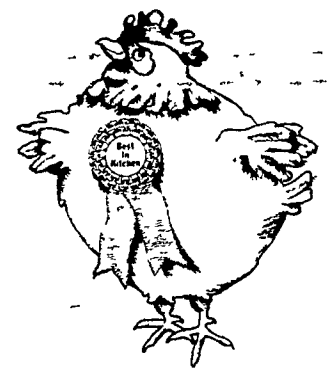
No-till operators are quick to acknowledge no savings in dollars. The cost of initial knock-down of existing vegetation offsets the plowing and harrowing costs. And, management is critical. There's no room for errors. Timeliness is important, the selection of the right herbicides, proper use of no-till planter, all are essential.

With increased concern over energy supplies, the no-till farmer finds himself in a good position to considerably reduce the amount of fuel used in the planting of crops.

Dick Gulick and Art Smith, Rocktown, N.J., were among farmers in attendance at the recent Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference here. Some 1200 farmers from six mid-Atlantic states attended the day-long affair and heard speakers discuss a range of subjects on the no-tillage system.

Gulick and Smith planted some 350 acres of field corn last year on the land Gulick farms in southern Hunterdon County. And it was all no-till! Much of the corn crop goes into the silos for feeding, the 300 head of Holstein cattle. Some corn is stored as grain for feeding, rest is sold on the market.

He also reports that he had



117 acres of no-till soybeans in this past year and rejuvenated a 26-acre hay field by introducing alfalfa via a no-till procedure.

Though there has been a move in the past few years to minimum-tillage, that is, using a chisel plow, Gulick still finds significant advantages with no-till. Several other farmers in the area, including Bob Fulper, Lambertville, still rely on the no-tillage technique.

The Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference featured research reports on solar grain drying, a study of herbicide and soil losses from runoff from convention versus no-till systems, some recent research data on no-till seeding of small grains and the introduction of legumes in hay and pasture fields by no-till. An Extension Service economist on the Penn State staff interestingly related his recommendations for achieving an extra 20 cents per bushel for corn.

And, perhaps the highlight of the day was a panel, "Beating the Weeds in '79." Three successful Pennsylvania farmers joined three Extension Service specialists in describing the procedures and recommendations for weed control in the production of field corn via no-till.

It was a good day, with a lot of good information presented. Perhaps as valuable as the formal program were the informal discussions that took place during the day, at lunch and in conversations in the car traveling to and from.

No-till seems to have found its niche. A practice that we have indicated from the start as being not for everyone, it does fit rather well a number of our farm operations.

Guided growth is the key to land use

Amos Funk

"I think it is time we treat our land as a non-renewable resource rather than just an economic unit to be traded at will without any thought of the future impact of such action."

MOUNT JOY – Amos Funk, well-known Lancaster County farmer and conservationist believes we have a choice in deciding how much land will be developed in the Garden Spot by the year 2000. Speaking here recently at a regular meeting of the Mount Joy Rotary Club, the grandfatherly champion of land preservation said a goal of "guided growth away from our best farmland" is achievable.

Noting that he is the third generation farmer at the family's Millersville property, he told the Rotarians he feels strongly about what happens in Lancaster County "because our land and our farmers are so special." He pointed out that 76 per cent of the County's land is prime farmland, while the average for the state is only 38 per cent.

"Where else in the United States do we find farmers outbidding developers for land to farm? And they are paying such amazing prices. Few of us can understand the economics involved, but it is happening," Funk declared.

"Directions, a Comprehensive Plan for the County, adopted by the County Commissioners in 1975, has set a goal for the retention of 287,000 acres of our best agricultural land by the year 2000. This would allow more than 100,000 acres of land presently used for agricultural production to be used for other purposes.

"I have a great deal of concern about the implementation of the County Comprehensive Plan. Are we doing enough to implement this plan? Will the plan ever be implemented? Sometimes I think we spend 75 percent of our time making plans and only 25 per cent of our effort is spent implementing those plans. I would like to see it turned around. Spend 25 per cent of our time making plans and 75 per cent of our time implementing them," Funk said. The noted conservationist - farmer said further: "I suppose my concern about plan implementation arises from a personal experience and a situation so nearly like our situation here in Lancaster County, that it scares me.

"First, my personal experience. In 1967, I was appointed by former Governor Shafer, to an 18-member committee and given the charge to develop a plan to "Preserve Pennsylvania's Agricultural Land".

After two years of work, we presented our report and recommendations to the governor. He and others complimented us on the report and described it as a good report. Unfortunately to date, few of our recomendations have been implemented. Naturally, this has been very frustrating to me."

Funk noted that in Santa Clara County, California residential development was to be guided to the foothills in the county and allow the rich valley floor to remain in agricultural production. "Instead, 800,000 people moved into the Santa Clara Valley in 20 years. Commercial agriculture has been destroyed. What has been the economic impact on the county? The cost of services demanded by the new residents for exceeded the new tax revenue to support these services and as a result, Santa Clara County has the highest per capita debt load of any county in California. I trust we won't let this happen here," Funk declared.

"Lancaster County has just recently achieved the dubious distinction of being the fastest developing county in the state. Some of you may also recall the news articles pointing out that Lancaster County ranks first in the nation in agricultural production without the use of irrigation," he continued.

"Can Lancaster County continue to be the fastest developing county in the state and still retain our position as the leading non-irrigated agricultural county in the nation? I doubt it! Which way do we go? I don't think we can afford the loss of Lancaster County's agriculture," the speaker asserted.

"Would any manufacturer reduce the size of his plant that is twice as efficient as competing plants in the state? Lancaster County's soils are twice as efficient in productivity as the average soils used in agricultural production in the rest of the state. 76 per cent of our soils are Class I, II, and III, compared to 38 per cent for the state.

Guided growth

"Would any manufacturer reduce the size of his work force working in this more efficient plant if the workers have proven superior to other workers in the state? Our farmers are younger, harder working, and frugal, yet many of them have to quit farming or leave the County because of the lack of land to farm.

"According to the most recent crop reporting service report, Lancaster County produced agricultural crops and products valued at 385 million dollars. The crop and agricultural product value for the entire State is $1.8 billion. So it follows that although there are 67 counties in Pennsylvania, Lancaster County produced nearly 1/5 of all the agricultural product value of the State. So you see, when a land use decision is made concerning land located in our county, we are considering alternate uses of land that is agriculturally among the most highly productive in the nation," Funk reasoned.

"The fact remains that Lancaster County is a nice place to work and live. Stewart Udall, former Secretary of the Interior, speaking in Hershey some time ago, said that if he were to pick an ideal community east of the Mississippi in which to live, he would choose Lancaster County. This is our problem, our county is just too attractive. I am sure a lot of counties wish they had this problem.

"I am fearful that unless we guide development a lot more carefully and hopefully slow down the rate of growth, our county will not continue to be a nice place to work and live," he continued.

"From time to time, the tourist industry here in the county calls our attention to the economic impact of their industry. In 1975, the reported expenditure by tourists in the county was 108 million dollars. This is a sizeable amount of money. However, in 1974, according to the last census figures, farmers in the county spent 199 million dollars on farm production expenses, a sum 54 per cent greater than the income from tourism. Farmers in the county also stimulate the economy," Funk declared.

"As of January, 1974, 112 of Lancaster County's 672 industries were agriculturally related. Agri-business is an important part of the County's economy," he exclaimed.

"Each year, it seems more of our good farmland is lost to urbanization. As an extreme example, I would cite Suffolk County, Long, Island, in New York State. Here is a county with excellent farmland similar to Lancaster County. It is a bit larger in area than our county. However, in the past 42 years, 87 per cent of the agricultural land has been taken out of production to accommodate the one million new people who moved into the county.

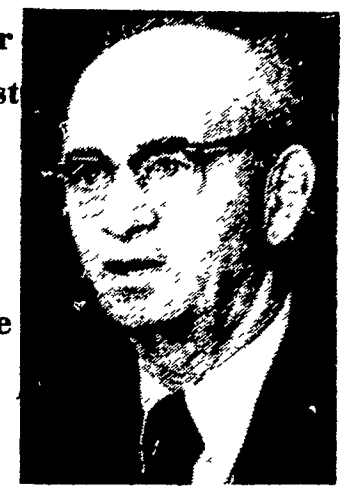
"To those who say, it couldn't happen here, remember today, Lancaster County leads all counties in the rate of development. 33 per cent of our county is now urbanized. In fact, eight of the 12 farms nearest our farm in Millersville, are owned by developers. While crops are now grown on these farms, quite likely development will be their future use, not farming.

"For some reason, people and industry are attracted to the best farmland. To date, approximately one half of Pennsylvania's best soils, the levelest, the easiest to farm and the least erodable, are already converted to non-agricultural use. The reason, it is easier to build on these soils, it is cheaper to build on these soils.

"A look at a soils map of Pennsylvania will show that most of the best agricultural land in the state is located in southeastern Pennsylvania. There, too, is where most of the industry is located and where most of the people live.

"The same situation exists in Lancaster County. Most of the development has taken place on the relatively level, rich limestone soils in the County.

"While most of our building in the past has been on prime farmland, I trust most of our future development will be guided away from our best agricultural land.



"While most of our building in the past has been on prime farmland, I trust most of our future development will be guided away from our best agricultural land."

Amos Funk

"In addition, I would hope we would use less land for each home or apartment that is built. I am not against growth. I favor reasonable growth and guided growth.

"I believe we can accommodate the projected 3,000 new housing units per year in Lancaster County if the housing density is increased toward the goals set by the Lancaster County Planning Commission. If this could be done, the projected 200,000 increased population in our county by the year 2000, could be housed on less than 35,000 acres of land. There have been periods in our recent history when for every 100 increase in population, 75 acres of agricultural land have been taken out of production.

"If we do as poorly in the future as we have during one 10-year period in the past, six times the 35,000 acres would be needed. We must not let this happen," Funk declared.

"I think it is time we treat land as a non-renewable resource rather than just an economic unit to be traded at will without any thought of the future impact of such action.

"Many of us are asking the same question as asked recently by U.S. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Rupert Cutler, when he asked and I quote: "How long can our nation permit the kidnapping of prime farmland for housing and industrial use before we gravely endanger our ability to meet the food needs of our people and our food commitments to the disadvantaged people of the world?"

"According to the most recent census figures, Lancaster County is losing 8000 acres of agricultural land per year to non-agricultural use. We still have nearly 400,000 acres left. If something isn't done about this loss, in 50 years there could be less than 100 farms left in what was

Noah Wenger named vice chairman of house agriculture committee

HARRISBURG — State Rep. Noah W. Wenger has been appointed by House Speaker H. Jack Seltzer to serve as vice chairman of the Agricultural Committee.

In announcing the assignment, Seltzer praised Wenger for his years of work with the agricultural community.

"He will be a definite asset to the Agricultural Committee since he has had farming experience himself and is aware of the needs and problems of the farmers in the Lancaster area," Seltzer said.

"Noah Wenger is the type of representative who believes in rolling up his sleeves and getting the job done, whether it's fighting for legislation on the House floor, representing Pennsylvania's best interests in committee meetings, or helping his constituents with state-related problems."

According to Wenger who has served on the committee for the past two years, he expects to continue a distinctly bi-partisan approach to common problems affecting farming and rural affairs.

"I am very pleased to be appointed Vice Chairman of the Agricultural Committee. Since Lancaster County is the leading farming area in the Commonwealth and I am a farmer myself, I feel especially close to the concerns of those involved in this industry," Wenger said.

"I can't emphasize enough how important this committee is to each one of us. After all, everyone is concerned that we have an adequate supply of wholesome and nutritious food on our tables each day."

He explained that the Agricultural Committee studies and proposes legislation dealing with farm problems and the conservation and preservation of Pennsylvania's farm and forest lands.

Wenger said that many of the issues dealt with in the last two years will continue to confront the Agriculture Committee in the future. These include preservation of prime land; support for a new Farm Show complex; regulation of migrant labor; health inspection of farm animals, environmental restrictions on fertilizers and farm odors; and financing farm enterprises.

The 99th District legislator, beginning his second term as a state representative said he anticipates several other issues will be on the committee's agenda in 1979-1980. These are the high cost of unemployment compensation and workmen's compensation as well as contracts with processors on perishable fruits and vegetables

"From the pressure and support building in the farm and rural communities across the state, the Agriculture Committee would almost certainly consider measures for improving rural highways as well as conflicts in the new motor vehicle regulations," he said.

Dauphin County DHIA Monthly Report

DECEMBER 1978

Roxy, an 8-year old Holstein in the Paul Crissinger herd, topped the milk production list in Dauphin County for lactations completed in December. She produced 24,191 pounds of milk and 855 pounds of butterfat. Second high in milk was a cow owned by J. Richard Alwine. Her lactation credits came to 24,015 pounds of milk and 742 pounds of butterfat. In butterfat, it was a close race between Poppy of Catalpa Farms and Duchess, owned by John Hertzler. Poppy, a 5-year old Holstein, won the top honor with a record of 21,705 pounds of milk, a 4.1 per cent test and 893 pounds of butterfat. Duchess, also a 5-year old, Holstein checked in with 19,237 pounds of milk, a 4.6 per cent test and 887 pounds of butterfat.

Farmers Union 'earning its stripes'

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — Leonard Zemaitis, a young, scholarly-looking gentleman who six months ago was hired by the Pennsylvania Farmers Union as their administrative assistant, says he has learned a lot about farmers and his adopted organization since he moved into his office. His verdict is that the Farmers Union is earning its stripes for the right reasons.

Noting that some farm groups have made headlines with publicity stunts which leave lasting negative impressions, Zemaitis says the Farmers Union works constructively for improvement of the farmer's life.

"We have made great strides in communication," the freshman PFU spokesman said in an address he delivered at the annual banquet meeting of the PFU on Monday night at the Penn Harris Motor Inn. His remarks preceded those of National Farmers Union President Tony Dechant, who was guest speaker for the occasion.

In testimony to Zemaitis' statement on progress in communication, it was noted that nearly 30 representatives of state government were in the audience, with most of those being assemblymen and senators. Several newspapers were also represented, and a press conference earlier in the day received response from reporters from both the broadcast and print media.

Leonard Zemaitis, administrative secretary for the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, says the organization is making progress in promoting agriculture.

"I have tried to make my office in Harrisburg a duct of information for better understanding," Zemaitis continued. Better understanding, he said, is essential if progress is to be made. He is particularly pleased in the interest being shown by politicians and reporters who represent the urban and suburban population, noting that it is in those areas of society where the farm story needs to be told most of all. Zemaitis himself is a former school teacher.

Ending his remarks, he concluded that the Farmers Union has received better recognition and more respect. He credits the organization's constructive programs for that achievement, and urges the membership to participate even more on legislative committees.

Pennsylvania Farmers Union Convention

Dechant says White House is responsible for farm programs, and nation is at 'dead center'

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — Tony Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, says "whether we like it or not, farm prices are made in Washington, D.C." At least the issues that are formulated there have an influence on farm pricing , he explains. He made the remark Monday evening during the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union.

Dechant, who has served as NFU president since 1966, also proclaimed that the place to talk to get action on farm programs is the White House, not the Department of Agriculture. While characterizing USDA Secretary Robert Bergland as a fine, capable, and knowledgeable man, Dechant argued that he can't do much for farmers because his hands are tied by the White House and the Office of Management and Budget. "That's where it's going to start," the farm organization leader said with reference to agricultural project funding and policy-making.

In talking to the group of some 200 PFU members and their guests, Dechant also lashed out at government economists, the Yellow Sheet beef pricing system, and the nation's lack of pride and initiative.

Born and raised on a Kansas farm, Dechant proclaimed that the United States has always been at its best when it is on the move. Likening the country's present state to "dead center" on a steam-driven piston engine, the farm leader says the U.S economy is not progressing. "We have to get off dead center," Dechant pleaded somewhat forcefully. "What's it going to take to get America back to work?" he asked.

Critical of government planning (or the lack of it) Dechant is particularly disappointed that this country does not do anything to protect its farm population. As president of the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, an organization which consists of 60 membership organizations and represents 35 million producers in 45 countries around the world, Dechant says other nations protect their farmers. He points out that world agricultural leaders frequently express amazement that the United States does not follow suit.

"Europe doesn't allow agricultural products in unless their own farmers have been taken care of," Dechant explained. In this country, however, he said, imports are let in regardless of the impact they may have on domestic prices paid to farmers. Also, U.S. farm goods are often sold overseas at below the costs of production.

(Turn to Page 124)

National Farmers Union president Tony Dechant was in Camp Hill this week lashing out at the White House, government economists, inflation, and Yellow Sheet meat pricing. He says the country is not moving and that some other nations around the world are taking advantage of America's idleness.

Farmers Union members told of family farm disappearance

HARRISBURG – Time is running out for the American family farm system unless farmers organize, a Michigan farm leader told the Pennsylvania Farmers Union convention here on Monday.

Donna Cootware, president of the Michigan Farmers Union, said Pennsylvania as well as other states are rapidly losing farmers and farm land.

"In 1940, Pennsylvania had nearly 170,000 farms, and the average farm had 86 acres. Today, you have less than half that number – 62,000 and the average size has grown to 154 acres.

"Pennsylvania has lost over half of its farms, and you have lost the families who worked so hard to build those farms," Cootware said.

Cootware, the first woman ever elected state president in the Farmers Union, pointed out that Pennsylvania has lost 6 million acres of farm land since 1940. She said the lost land would support 40,000 farm families.

"The loss of farm families throughout the country has been costly. It means people moved to town to compete with city people for not enough jobs. It means small towns have died. It means rural churches and schools have closed. It means small businesses have had to close their doors. And it means that fewer and fewer families have the opportunity for the wholesome, productive life that is possible on a family farm," Cootware said.

Cootware said the loss of family farms is moving the nation toward the time when only the very rich can own land. "We are rapidly headed toward a new feudal system where the big businessman or sheik is the prince and the legitimate farmer is the pauper," she said.

According to Cootware, the small farmer is threatened by low farm prices, rising production costs, high interest rates and competition for farm land by non-farm and foreign investors.

Cootware said the farmer's best hope is to organize and to lobby Congress.

How BIG is big enough for your own feed processing system

Where you start, what you add, and when, depends on your plans for the future of your farm.

The fact is that size is not the most important consideration when agribusinessmen choose to make their own feed. Other benefits such as fresher feed, more uniform quality ingredients, flexible ration changes, and financial independence are greater influences that can greatly affect your operation's profitability

A Tam Agri Corporation representative can explain the Mix Mill Plan for staged growth and introduce you to the advantages of system leasing. Your request for informative literature is welcomed.

Build your feed processing system to your specific requirements: Start small — become as sophisticated as you require. Basically, Mix-Mill systems are TOTAL feed handling and processing systems that involve everything from receiving grain and other ingredients as they come from the truck or field to deliver feed to the livestock or birds. Mix Mill increases the efficiency of your rations while decreasing the cost of producing them and gives you more time in management ... less in labor.

It is a fact that you can start an automatic feed processing system for no more than you would invest in a PTO grinder mixer. And . . . consider leasing. Minimum cash outlay keeps working capital available.

USDA outlines 1979 marketing projects

NEW YORK, N.Y. - A U.S. Department of Agriculture marketing official outlined five types of state projects that will be encouraged during 1979 under the federal-state marketing improvement program.

Proposed projects are being sought from state departments of agriculture in electronic marketing, standardization of shipping containers, fresh-water aquaculture, finding new outlets for agricultural wastes and by-products, and marketing of agricultural inputs such as feed and seed.

Barbara Lindemann Schlei, administrator of the department's Agriculture Marketing Service, said increased emphasis will be given to projects in these five areas. But, she said, states aren't limited to projects in these areas. "We welcome grant applications for any worthwhile marketing projects a state wants to develop," she said.

A total of $1.6 million will be available for approved projects during fiscal 1979. If a state's proposed project is approved, the state matches the federal funds with at least an equal amount of state money.

Schlei said electronic marketing is a possible means of increasing competition in marketing farm products and thereby making the supply and demand system work better. "Last October, we gave funds to Georgia, Ohio, and Virginia for pilot projects on electronic marketing of eggs, slaughter hogs and cull cows," she said.

"Our interest in helping states develop standard shipping containers is a means of reducing transportation and handling costs.", she said.

Aquaculture projects would be concerned with the marketing of food produced in controlled fresh-water environments, Schlei explained. She said AMS is interested in finding new ways to use agricultural wastes and by-products, such as animal and plant residues resulting from packing and processing operations.

Schlei said input marketing has already received some emphasis in the marketing improvement program. "We recently gave a marketing grant to New York to test the feasibility of reporting the prices of agricultural inputs," she said. "This is the fifth area where we would like to see more state projects."

Walker analyzes what 1979 may bring

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Congressman Robert Walker, representing Lancaster County and portions of Lebanon and Chester Counties, recently released some of his predictions for 1979, based on information and news reports that have come across his desk. "My predictions should not be evaluated on how good a prognosticator I turn out to be; rather, they are intended to give you an idea of what the upcoming year may hold in terms of national policymaking," the legislator explained. His predictions follow.

Robert Walker

Prediction #1. Congress will be heavily concerned with economic matters. In the first several months, the fight against inflation will be very prominent in the legislating process. Later in the year, however, an economic downturn is likely to get increased attention.

Prediction #2. Despite assurances that he wants to stop the movement toward bigger and bigger government, President Carter will propose policies aimed at expanding the federal bureaucracy. For example, we can look for him to propose and push the creation of a Department of Education.

Prediction #3. National health insurance bills will receive considerable attention on Capitol Hill but proposals for a comprehensive program will be put aside chiefly because of the additional expense to taxpayers.

Prediction #4. We will discover that the crisis in Iran is largely due to Soviet backed agitators seeking to end American influence in that country.

Prediction #5. Any SALT (Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty) agreement will be the subject of a great national debate not unlike that which surrounded the Panama Canal Treaty and that debate will result in a great deal of Congressional controversy.

Prediction #6. Egypt and Israel will come to a treaty arrangement between themselves but it will be limited to assuring peace. Those two nations will leave negotiations on specific questions for another day.

Prediction #7 Our new policy toward China will result in public and world concern about our national defense policy and, particularly, our commitment to worldwide mutual defense pacts.

Prediction #8. By the end of the year, there will be at least six and perhaps as many as a dozen announced presidential contenders for 1980.

once called the Garden Spot of America, the leading non-irrigated county in the nation. What would Lancaster County be like without farms?" Funk asked.

"If there were no farms there would be no farmers markets and no roadside stands. Our people have become accustomed to the sweetness and good flavor that is only enjoyed when sweet corn is eaten the day it is harvested. They also like that special sweet taste that is gotten only from a canteloupe ripened on the vine.

"Do we really want to give up the enjoyment that red, ripe strawberries bring to our Summer living? Who of you hasn't noticed the difference in flavor between a peach or nectarine that is tree-ripened as compared to immature fruit picked firm enough to slip into the county.

"I am convinced the citizens of this great county are too intelligent to allow our prime farmland, and irreplaceable resource, to be covered up with asphalt and concrete, especially when there are more than 100,000 acres that are less desirable for farming, the county where development can and should take place.

"There are a number of tools that can be used to guide growth. The easiest and most widely used is preferential assessment, now used in 42 states. Pennsylvania Acts 515, and 319 are examples of such acts. Agricultural zoning is a solution much talked about these days. It is an approach that is better than preferential assessment, but still not very permanent. Agricultural Districts have worked well in New York and California. However, there is nothing except a tax penalty to keep a farmer from selling to a developer.

"Land use legislation is difficult and slow to implement. There are costs that today seem rather high."

"Suffolk County, New York with less than 60,000 acres left from the original 677,000 acres, authorized the purchase of development rights in 1974 and finally in 1978, the development rights have been purchased to 2600 acres. Five states in the Northeast have passed legislation to purchase development rights from farmers.

Land use legislation is difficult and slow to implement. There are costs that today seem rather high," Funk continued.

"On November 15, the County Commissioners approved a 14-member Agricultural Preservation Task Force. The charge given to the Task Force is to develop an agricultural land deed restriction program. A final report has been requested by February, 1979. Immediate plan implementation has been assured by the Commissioners," Funk said.

"Under this program, a farm property owner would voluntarily place a deed restriction on a property in return for certain cash and/or tax incentives at the local, state or federal levels. Congressman Bob Walker is very interested in this part of the program; in fact, he has legislation ready to introduce that should help," Funk explained.

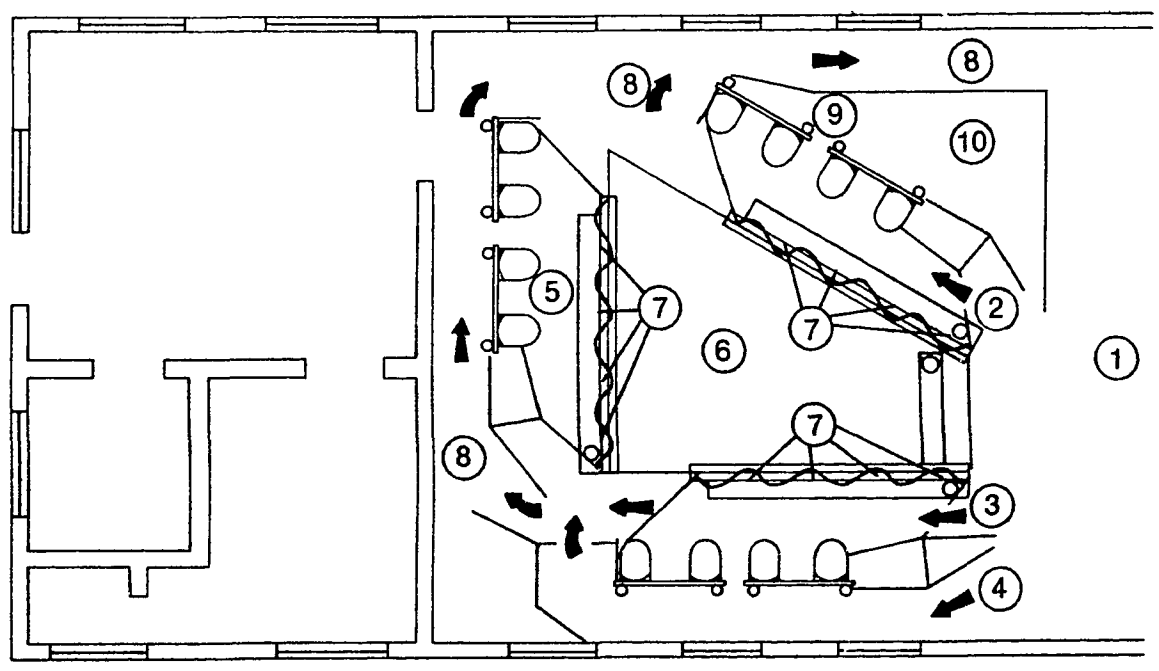
"This program is simple in its concept, less costly in its implementation than the purchase of development rights and is equally as permanent. In addition, as I envision the program, it will not violate the principles of the free enterprise system. Remember, it is voluntary in nature and yet, I feel it could be very persuasive in its application.

"This program will have a price tag. To some of our Lancaster County residents, it may seem a bit high, but not as high as doing nothing or adopting short-range ineffective measures.

"There are a number of legal matters that have to be clarified. We may need some help from our legislators to amend some enabling legislation to permit us to go forward. At last I think we have a start. I hope we can move ahead and that we will be supported by the business community, the farmers and the general public," Funk concluded.

12-Stall Clay Trigon Milking Parlor

A 12-Stall Trigon is basically a Double-4 Herringbone, plus 4 additional herringbone stalls across the end, arranged as a Trigon!



Here's How Clay Trigon Milking Parlor Works

Trigon arrangement calls for three rows of four herringbone milking stalls designed around a triangle Cows are brought into parlor from holding area (1) Clay crowd gate can make this operation more efficient Cows enter parlor at either three entrances (2), (3), and (4) At (2) and (3) they go directly into herringbone At (4) cows go behind row of stalls (3) and enter through gates to milking area (5) Automated air operated power gates can make this operation smooth and easy Operator is in 30" deep milking area (6) and he milks cows by moving in a circular pattern around parlor. Udder stimulators (7) can be used to prepare cows The operator attaches the milker unit When cow has been milked the milker unit can be removed by automated take-off units, or manually The cows leave the parlor in the return lane (8) Power operated cutting gates (9) can be used to divert cows that need treatment into a catch pen (10)

Ideal for Fast, Efficient One-Man Milking

Historically, one man has worked most efficiently in a Double-4 Herringbone milking parlor Double-6's have been developed and an outstanding operator can operate it on a one-man basis over a short period of time Now the fully automated Trigon makes it possible for one-man to operate the milking capacity equivalent of a Double-8, with fewer steps and more cow control Fully automated entrance and exit gates, automatic take-off units on the milking machines, and such other automated units as the Clay Cow Fetch crowd gate, automatic udder stimulators, power operated cutting gates, Easy Action doors, and feed bowl closures make this design a model for efficiency and economical operation In a fully automated 12-Stall Trigon one man can milk up to 80 cows per hour!

Pennsylvania Farmers Union Convention

Dechant says low farm prices are inflationary

HARRISBURG - Holding down farm prices in the name of fighting inflation may be the most inflationary course of all, a national farm leader said here Monday.

Speaking at the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, held at the Penn Harris Motel, Tony T. Dechant, president of the National Farmers Union, said that the livestock and meat industry is "just one example of what happens when an industry is left in such a depressed state for so long that there is no incentive for maintaining needed production."

Tony Dechant

"Farming is like any other business in that farm operators have to be able to recover their costs of production," he explained. "Some people may be shocked if hamburger prices reach $2.00 a pound later this year, but this result ought to have been expected when producers were left with less-than-break-even prices for three years, and then exposed to increased meat imports just when farm prices began to make a belated rally."

The Farmers Union spokesman maintained that federal action to support farm prices at or near full parity levels "would be the most productive investment society could make to assure stability of supplies and prices.

"An abundant and stable supply of food for consumers cannot be assured in the long run without economic stability for farm producers," Dechant added. "If national policymakers deprive farmers of any incentive to produce, and thereby lose our family farm system, that could be the biggest inflationary blockbuster of all.

"I say this because if the family farmers of the nation go by the wayside, the likely successor will be an industrialized agriculture which will ensure its own economic stability by programmed scarcity.

"The quickest way to let milk prices go to $3 a gallon, sugar to a dollar a pound, and other food prices into the stratosphere, is simply never to worry about whether family farmers can stay in business," Dechant asserted.

Officials of the White House Council on Wage and Price Stability and the President's Council of Economic Advisers, in opposing every recent needed increase in farm price levels, "have been giving the President advice which is both shortsighted and counter-productive. It can lead nowhere but to disaster," Dechant concluded.

Don Rhodes named State FFA Star Farmer

By DIETER KRIEG

NEW OXFORD — Being a senior in high school and coming very close to being a full-time farmer distinguishes Donald P. Rhodes from many other young men his age. The Pennsylvania FFA Association, of which he is a member, last week named the 17-year old Adams County youth their State Star Farmer. It is the highest FFA recognition attainable on the state level. The presentation was made during the organization's 50th mid-Winter convention, held in conjunction with the Farm Show. The site of the ceremonies was the Forum of the Education Building in Harrisburg.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald P. Rhodes, New Oxford R2, the young award recipient credits his parents for the start he has in farming and offers further that he is thankful for the help they have provided all along. He owns 10 registered Holstein cows and 13 head of youngstock. He said he got started at about age 10 or 11 with money he was earning while working on the home farm. He has been actively involved with Holstein dairy cattle ever since. At present he takes care of most all of the management involved with the family's dairy herd. He milks the 22-cow herd both morning and evening and is trained in artificial insemination. Someday, he says, he'd like to have his own dairy operation for about 80 cows.

A student at New Oxford High School, Rhodes is part of a farming enterprise which encompasses approximately 500 acres, 173 of which are owned. The award recipient participates in all phases of the business, a portion of which belongs to his older brother, Ted, who specializes in beef production.

Donald's farming programs over the four years he has been in the FFA have included dairy heifers, dairy cows, a beef herd, corn, dairy calves, and hay crops. This past year he registered 50 acres of silage corn and 30 acres of mixed hay in his FFA record book, as well as the entire milking dairy herd.

Donald has shown some of his dairy cattle at county fairs, the district FFA show, the Pennsylvania Junior Dairy Show, and the Farm Show. Last August he was named champion showman at the Southcentral District FFA Dairy Show in Shippensburg. He placed second in fitting at the same event and won three blue ribbons for his entries.

The young award winner's ambition is to someday have an 80-cow comfort-stall barn in which he can manage his own herd of registered Holsteins. "I would like to establish a pretty good herd, and sell breeding stock and show animals," he commented.

"You can take a lot better care of your cows in individual stalls," he said, as he continued to outline his future plans. He'd like to become a full partner on the home farm. His father, although active on the farm, holds down a second job as a mail carrier.

Donald chose the dairy business, he says, because he was brought up around dairy cattle. "I have always liked working with them," he said. "I think there's a pretty good future in it if you can establish yourself and get started."He chose to join the FFA because "I thought it would help me a lot to establish my own dairy herd and to learn a lot about agriculture."

Currently serving as president of both his local and county FFA chapters, Donald attended the National FFA Convention in Kansas City for the past two years. His achievements include Star Chapter Greenhand, beef production awards, dairy production awards, the Adams Apple Degree, and Keystone Farmer Degree. As winner of the State Star Farmer Contest, he is now in the running for additional honors later this year. He will represent Pennsylvania in September for the title of Star Farmer for the North Atlantic Region. He'll be competing against Star Farmers from 16 northeastern states.

Aside from his FFA leadership positions, Donald is also serving as vice president of the Student Council this year. In prior years he was president of his freshman class, and vice president of both his sophomore and junior classes. He is a member of the United Church of Christ of Biglerville.

Some of the contests in which the award recipient has participated are public speaking, project books, dairy judging, land judging, and livestock judging.

Competing against Donald this year for the State Star Farmer title were: Kennard Henley III of Cochranville R1, representing the eastern region; Edward F. Husted, Jr., Knoxville R1, representing the northcentral region; and Donald E. Cummings, Claysville R2, from the western region.

Don Rhodes was named the Pennsylvania FFA Star Farmer last week. He is a full-time student and farmer in Adams County.

EVER HEAR OF 4½ FT. TO 5 FT. ALFALFA WITHOUT LODGING AND 100 BU. SOYBEANS PER ACRE? WE DID ON THE REAMS PROGRAM. AND OTHER CROPS ACCORDINGLY

It is a special way of balancing NPK & major minerals, calling for high phosphorus through natural soft rock phosphate mined in Fla. It is loaded with many precious minerals & trace elements which are transmitted into the crop & from the crop into the consumer. It costs only $80 per ton plus spreading. $100 per ton in bags. Good for everything that grows & the crop is extremely high in food value. Most livestock farmers have enough Potash for this proven program & a large percentage or all of your nitrogen can be acquired out of the air by that super strain of nitrogen fixing bacteria - BX, which also keeps up phosphorus & Potash levels from spring to fall - excellent crops for 3 yrs. without fertilizer, maybe longer - time will tell. Our Agrispon bacteria are also good but not as tough as BX.
THE REAMS PROGRAM IS TERRIFIC WITHOUT BX. THE BX IS TERRIFIC WITHOUT THE REAMS PROGRAM. Combine them & enter a contest. It is going to get interesting. Even half BX & half phosphate recommendations should drive you happy. $10 BX will cut your fertilizer bill in half, give a superior crop in QUANTITY & QUALITY, leave your soil in better condition for next year & for drought. Avoid the spring rush apply the phosphorus this winter if weather is fit to spread. It bonds to the soil, practically no loss. We get bulk ears frequently. Good discount for dumping at the barn for mixing with manure. It greatly increases the value of both manure & phosphorus & helps dry up liquid manure. We are going to get speakers for both. The Reams program by Rick Bishop of N.Y. State for the following Meeting.

VALUABLE CROPS (Quantity & Quality) MEETING

Liberty Fire Hall, East Main St., New Holland, Pa. Thurs., Feb. 1, 1979 - 12:30 sharp, lasting till bedtime except a supper break of a simple health snack, the same offered at noon so you come early. Ask us for a program schedule. The Reams program calls for soil bacteria & we believe the combination with BX will cause a green revolution that will startle the country. It produces healthy crops without spraying. BX with RPA (root protecting agent) revives sick asparagus & fruit trees & prevents nemetodes in root crops. Bring your friends, neighbors & relatives. Everybody ought to know. It takes us all to solve the water pollution problem. Read Prov. 15:7. Wholesale vegetable buyers invited at 10 to present their needs for the year. Higher gas will make Calif. veg. cost too much.

717-354-7064 or 394-9917 early mornings for owner.

We want to have competent consultants for our customers. We are looking for Reams trainees to take a training course here in late Feb Ream soil testing is done locally at $10 per sample. Organic Center pays for 3 or 5 tests according to the size of your phosphorus order

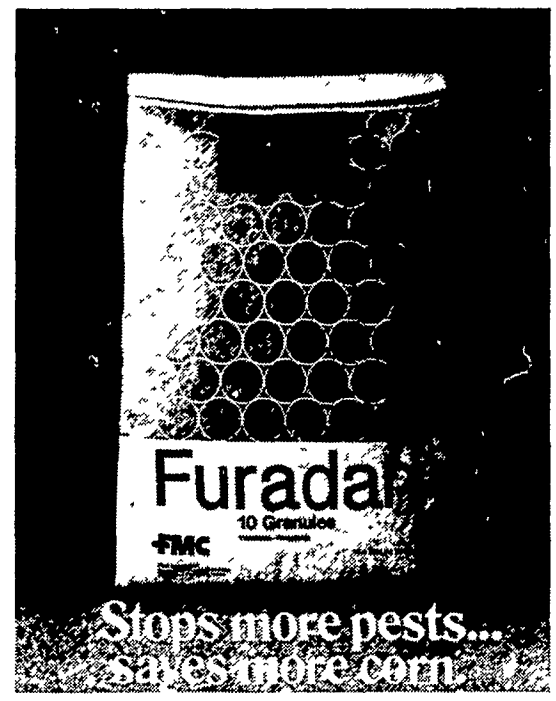
Since 1974 the world corn yield champs have had one thing in common: Furadan.

When you're pushing your corn as high as it'll go, you've got to make every bushel count.

That's why it's no surprise that each of these world champion growers relied on Furadan® insecticide-nematicide to protect his corn.

Why? Because Furadan stops more corn-robbing pests than any other soil insecticide. It not only gets rootworms—it controls nematodes, European corn borers (first generation), Southwestern corn borers, wireworms, armyworms, early-season fall armyworms and flea beetles.

Remember that the timing and rate of application vary with the pest. So be sure to follow label directions.



Of course, we can't promise you'll set a world's record with Furadan. But we can promise you'll stop more corn pests and save more corn. And that's the way to make every bushel count—whether you shoot for 100, 200, or 300 bushels per acre.

Put on Furadan this spring. And see for yourself why the top corn growers in the world depend on Furadan to save their corn.

Highest FFA honor goes to Vince Arnold

Vince Arnold has ambitions of having his own lawn care and landscaping business and hopes of someday earning the American Farmer Degree. Encouraging him with his goals is his instructor, left, Gerald Strickler.

By DIETER KRIEG

MYERSTOWN — One of the highest honors achievable in the Pennsylvania FFA Association came to a Lebanon County family last week for the second year in a row. The honor is the distinction of being named State Star Agribusinessman. The fortunate young man to win the award is Vincent Arnold. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arnold, Schaefferstown, and younger brother of last year's State Star Agribusinessman, Patrick Arnold.

A 1978 graduate of Eastern Lebanon County High School, Myerstown, the 18-year old Arnold was presented with the award last week during the 50th mid-Winter convention of the Pennsylvania FFA Association, held in conjunction with the 63rd annual Pennsylvania Farm Show. Ceremonies took place in the Forum of the Education Building.

Arnold is employed as a crew foreman at Schaeffer's Lawn and Garden Center, Myerstown, where he deals in landscaping, planting, pruning, seeding, and fertilization. Private homes provide the majority of business.

Asked how he felt when it was announced that he was the state winner, Arnold said he was "surprised."

The selection didn't come as much of a surprise to his instructor, Gerald Strickler, however. "I thought he had a pretty good shot at it, considering his equity and labor income," he commented during an interview this week.

According to Strickler, who has headed the vocational agriculture department at ELCO High School for seven years, a student has to be determined to achieve his goals. Strickler has had at least one of his students win the American Farmer Degree or similar national recognition for each of the seven years he has taught at the school. "But it's the students who have to do the work and win the recognition," he reapeated. "The best guidance won't help, if they themselves don't have the ambition," he affirmed.

Arnold's ambition centers around someday having his own lawn, garden, and landscaping business. He sees a bright future in it and is combining that dream with perhaps winning the American Farmer Degree someday. As a result of his recognition last week in Harrisburg, Arnold will represent Pennsylvania in September in competition

COLUMBIA, Mo. - University of Missouri scientists have produced a new hybrid cross involving wheat, barley and rye.

It's a sterile hybrid, and the UMC scientists are trying to produce a fertile version of this cross which may be useful in developing improved varieties.

The hybrid is a result of research by Gordon Kimber, wheat geneticist, and Percy J. Sallee, research specialist in the UMC agronomy department. Sallee actually made the cross.

"The sterile hybrid helps us better understand the relationship between different species, and this understanding is useful to breeders trying to develop improved varieties," the scientists reported.

"We hope to develop a fertile hybrid which would make a bridge across which we could transfer useful genes. In other words, we could transfer all the genes of one species to another and select the best ones for developing improved crop varieties."

Dairy cow meat tested for antibiotic residues

NEW YORK, N.Y. – February is the starting date for STOP – a new, quick screening test U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) veterinarians will use to determine if there are antibiotic residues in meat from dairy cows.

Stopping illegal residues is the aim of the STOP campaign, the education effort launched by the dairy industry and USDA, as well as the acronym for the test – Swab Test on Premises. That education effort is to let everyone involved in selling dairy cows for slaughter know that antibiotic residue in meat from dairy cows is a problem, and how to prevent it.

Dairy farmers have been aware for some years that they are legally responsible for antibiotic residues that occur in milk and that they must follow a specific withdrawal time before the milk can be marketed.

The same thing is true for meat from cull dairy cows – dairymen are legally responsible for antibiotic residues that occur in the meat, and they must withhold the animals from market until the prescribed withdrawal time for a drug is over.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman believes dairymen will cooperate:

"Our surveys have found a high percentage of cows – 10 to 30 per cent – show specific disease conditions at time of slaughter and have antibiotic residues in violation of tolerances. Dairy farmers are aware of the problem and are as anxious as we are to see the violation rate go down."

The STOP test will provide a yes/no answer about antibiotic residues within 18 hours, before the carcass would normally leave the slaughter plant. It means more carcasses can be tested for residues, and those found residue-free can be processed more quickly.

USDA's Food Safety and Quality Service (FSQS), the agency responsible for administering the Federal Meat Inspection Act, has been screening cattle for antibiotic residues since 1973. Monitoring has been limited, however, because there was no fast, easily performed test procedure. Now that test, developed by Ralph Johnston of FSQS, is available.

The STOP campaign is concentrating on dairy slaughter cows because they may be subjected to more antibiotic drug treatment than other kinds of cattle. The test will be used at first only on dairy cows showing either needle injection marks or signs of mastitis. Other disease conditions and other types of cattle, particularly calves, will gradually be included.

Public and governmental concern about drug residues has been growing. Consumer protection from drug residues in meat is afforded by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA), which establishes tolerances for drug residues in meat, and USDA, whose meat inspectors are responsible for monitoring meat for these tolerances.

To perform the STOP test, USDA veterinarians will take a swab sample from the kidney of a suspected carcass and incubate the swab for 18 hours. If the results are negative, the carcass can be released immediately. If the sample shows the presence of antibiotics, the carcass will be retained in the plant. Kidney, liver, and muscle samples will then be sent to a USDA laboratory for tests to measure the kind-and-level of drugs and to determine if all or parts of the carcass should be condemned. These tests take 7 to 14 days. When the results are known, the carcasses and carcass parts containing no residues will be released for consumption.

The National Milk Producer's Federation (NMPF), a Wasington-based organization concerned with public policy issues affecting the dairy industry, has been a leading force in the

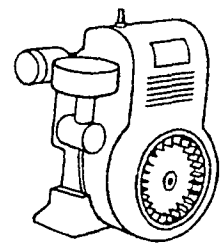
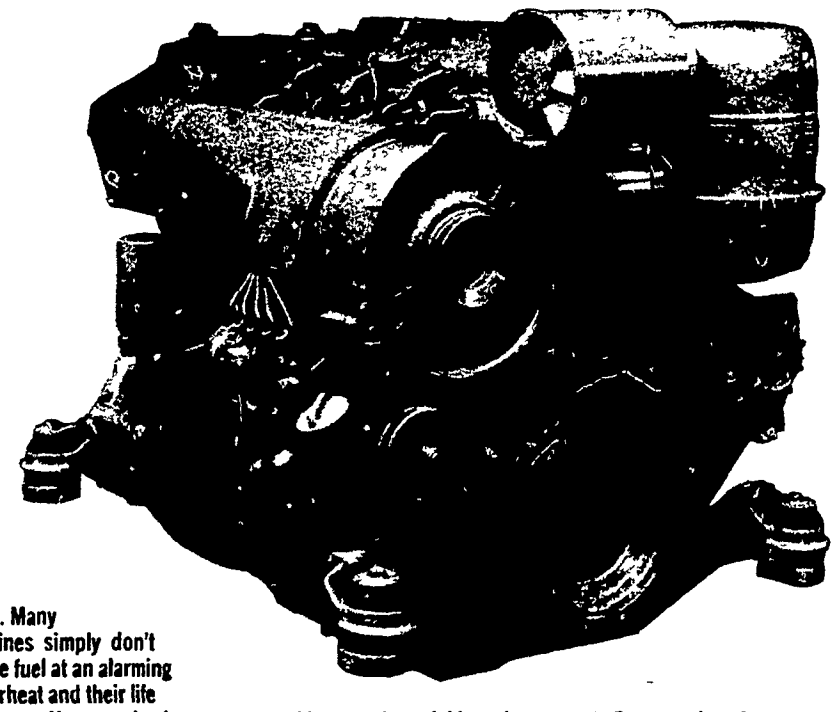
All air-cooled engines are NOT created equal





It's easier to call an engine "heavy duty" than it is to build it that way. Many carburated "heavy duty" industrial engines simply don't deserve the title. They consume expensive fuel at an alarming rate they are prone to break down or overheat and their life expectancy is measured in hundreds of hours. If any engine in the world qualifies as heavy duty, it's Deutz. Deutz engines are often chosen to power equipment with unit price tags over half a million dollars—that's heavy duty.

When it comes to cooling efficiency, the Deutz precision-engineered axial-flow cooling air blowers have no equal. This direct approach to cooling [without coolants, additives, cavitation] means our engines need only about 60% of the air volume liquid-cooled engines require. Combustion efficiency is greatly improved by higher head temperatures and engine life is extended by cooler oil temperatures.

If you think air-cooled engines are prone to overheat, talk to Deutz users in the scorching heat of the Imperial or San Joaquin valleys. There, Deutz engines deliver more than 20,000 hours of trouble-free service before a major overhaul.

There are lots of things that separate Deutz engines from water-cooled and other air-cooled engines. Things like blower design, big lube oil coolers, oil-cooled pistons, special alloy cylinder heads, a research and development team of more than 1,000 engineers. These are all important advantages. Still we say: If you can find an engine that uses less fuel than a Deutz—buy it.

cooperative effort to educate the nation's 250,000 dairy farmers, their families and employees, and veterinarians and animal buyers, about ways to prevent antibiotic residues. NMPF initiated the Cull Dairy Cow Antibiotic Task Force, which includes representatives from the National Mastitis Council, the American Dairy Science Association, Animal Health Institute, the American Association of Bovine Practioners, the National Dairy Herd Improvement Association, United Dairy Industry Association, USDA, FDA, and State Extension Services.

"Dairy producers are concerned with the potential economic efforts of STOP – its impact on cull cow prices," said John B. Adams, staff coordinator for NMPF's Animal Disease Advisory Committee. "We realize that a broad-based coalition is necessary to help dairy producers understand how to prevent antibiotic residues from exceeding tolerances established for milk and meat."

The Task Force is telling producers about STOP and alerting them to potential residue problems and their responsibilities to use drugs correctly and market residue-free cows. About 2.5 million dairy cows are slaughtered each year.

Dr. John E. Spaulding, director of FSQS's Residue Evaluation and Surveillance Division, said dairy producers should follow carefully the prescribed withdrawal period on a drug's label. Some drugs require as long as 30 days. Dairy producers, Spaulding said, should look at such withdrawal times as "minimums" -- not "maximums" – and keep their cows on the farm until the withdrawal time has expired.

Currently, FSQS plans to have 182 screening sites covering a total of 333 plants when the program gets underway.

When a violation occurs, FSQS will notify the producer and meat inspectors will carefully observe subsequent animals from that producer as they come to slaughter.

All incidents of illegal residues are reported to the Food and Drug Administration, which has authority to investigate and take regulatory action. If problems persist, tighter restrictions on use of antibiotic drugs could be imposed.

Meanwhile, the possibility of a screening kit for use by farmers on the farm is being explored so that they would know definitely when animals were free from antibiotic residues and ready for market.

Vince Arnold

for the title of Star Agribusinessman of the North Atlantic Region. He'll be competing against State FFA Star Agribusinessmen from 16 northeastern states.

In addition to his work at the garden center, Arnold is also involved with dairy cattle. He owns six Holsteins, and has spent a portion of his time working on a 60-head dairy farm. The young man is also active in the show ring. One of his accomplishments was showing the reserve grand champion at an FFA dairy cattle show.

Arnold's leadership activities in the FFA were also figured in during the selection process. He has served his Chapter as both treasurer and vice president and was also Lebanon County FFA treasurer. He attended the National FFA Convention in Kansas City in 1977 and was a 3-year member of his Chapter's dairy cattle and land judging teams.

Arnold looks at his agricultural future as being a good way to express himself and says he derives satisfaction from seeing his work after trees are planted and lawns are seeded. According to Strickler, he has the potential for bringing more recognition to his family and Lebanon County.

Competing against Arnold this year for the State Star Agribusinessman Award were: Earl R Webb of Butler R1, representing the western region; Dan Catherman of 142 Sycamore Drive, State College, representing the northcentral region; and Micah Garling of Mont Alto, representing the south-central region.

Foreign dairy shipments are likely to increase

By DIETER KRIEG

CAMP HILL — The pendulum of the dairy economy may soon be swinging from good to bad, according to Gordon Conklin, editor of American Agriculturalist magazine. Conklin spoke here last week at the 108th annual meeting of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association.

The clouds which the bespectacled editor sees on the dairy horizon are: 1. massive dairy imports from Western Europe, 2. restraints on the rights of farmer cooperatives, 3. the possibility of mandatory wage-price controls, 4. inflation, 5. lowered productivity per American worker, and 6. the ongoing energy crunch.

"Massive dairy imports from Western Europe are being negotiated right now," Conklin told the assembly of some 200 dairy farmers and guests. Among the trade concessions being considered are a 33 per cent increase in cheese imports. During 1977, Conklin pointed out, the U.S. imported 1.7 billion pounds of cheese. Noting that the imports would have an effect on domestic prices, Conklin assured that the National Milk Producers Federation is vigorously opposed to the increased imports idea.

The National Commission for the Review of Antitrust Laws and Procedures provides the second reason for Conklin's negative report. The Commission alleges that farmer cooperatives wield too much power in the market place. (See page 1 story, Lancaster Farming, Dec. 23, 1978 issue.)

As a result of its conclusions, the Commission is recommending to President Carter and the Justice Department that farmer cooperatives have their rights curtailed. Specifically, the Commission's recommendations call for: 1. restrictions on mergers of common marketing agencies, 2. removal of authority from the Agriculture Secretary on determining whether or not a cooperative is unduly enhancing prices, and 3. the presentation of competitive impact statements when a cooperative plans a business move.

"Farmers want clout. The government gave it to the coal miners. But farmers have never been able to get that power either politically or economically," Conklin observed.

Despite the presently good economic picture for dairy farmers and cattlemen, Conklin suspects all that may change if the government decides to impose mandatory wage-price controls. He cites an economist at Cornell University who speculates that the price of beef may trigger such controls because of its close visibility to consumers.

Conklin notes that food prices are uppermost in consumers' economic thoughts and that politicians are aware of this What they fail to realize, the editor observed, is that "food is a good buy, based on the number of hours they have to work for it." He emphasized that the average American now spends 21 per cent of his annual income on transportation, which is more than what he spends on food.

"Inflation grabs at the well-being of all of us," Conklin continued "Our welfare state has handed out a lot of paper claims on production ... We're not in good standing compared to other industrialized nations of the world, particularly West Germany and Japan ... If we ran our family budgets like the federal government's we'd all be bankrupt." According to Conklin, one of the reason's for America's poor showing in international tade is that there is less productivity per worker in America. Also, regulations and environmental considerations have put a damper on production.

"There is a growing feeling in this country," Conklin boomed, "to let the Japanese and the Germans produce the iron, and the pollution that goes with it " The trend in thinkng has been that it is cheaper to import than to manufacture here

"We had better wake up, or we'll dry up," Conklin warned. "I hope the wizards in Washington will not decide to move the production of our foods overseas by hamstringing production over here."

Conklin argues that politicians oppose inflation with words, but cause it with deeds, and he says further that most Americans really wouldn't want to win the war against inflation because it has been beneficial to them. It helps home owners, borrowers, industrialists, and farmers. "All of us can pay off our debts with cheap dollars," he said. "Inflation eats us all alive, and yet we all contribute to it. As Pogo said: 'We have found the enemy, and he is us,' " Conklin concluded.

The availability and cost of energy will have to be reckoned with. According to Conklin, the people of the world will not turn back. He points out that the present energy crunch is the fourth such crisis in the history of mankind and that in each case something new was developed. He predicts that the energy crunch will be overcome, even if it means being dragged across the nuclear threshold kicking and screaming.

Conklin states that all economic factors considered, the production of energy is the bottom line of the formula. Energy production per capita, he says, is what determines how much can be produced overall.

Summing up, Conklin said: "The ability of people to produce food will depend largely on what happens outside our own line fences." He recommends that farmers get more involved with the political processes of their country.

Gordon Conklin, editor of the American Agriculturalist, addressed some 200 members and guests of the Pennsylvania Dairymen's Association Tuesday night, telling them that imports, inflation, and an attack on cooperatives are to be reckoned within the future.

Solar grain drying not yet practical

LANCASTER - The potential value of solar-supplemental heat for grain drying is limited when compared to natural-air drying, says Vance Morey, agricultural engineer at the University of Minnesota.

Morey was a speaker at the Fifth Mid-Atlantic No-Till Conference held here January 4. More than 1300 farmers and industry representatives from six states attended the conference.

Except for special cirumstances it appears that the justifiable investments are well below the installed cost of even so-called "low-cost" collectors. The justifiable cost per square foot may be as much as doubled for collectors tilted at an optimum angle to the sun or designed for higher efficiencies. However, in most cases such collectors will have higher installed costs per square foot, Morey points out.

"Solar collectors of one acre or more in size are required to supply the heat energy for even a moderate-sized, high-speed system. Collectors which operate efficiently at the 120 degree F to 220 degree F temperatures needed for high-speed systems are expensive," he notes.

Morey says the potential for supplying supplemental solar heat to in-storage drying systems appear to be more promising. The reasons for this include:

1. The long drying period (4 to 10 weeks or longer) provides an extended period for collecting solar energy.

2. Intermittent periods of cloudy weather are not a problem since the grain in the bin can act as an energy storage.

3. The high airflow requirements along with the low temperature rises mean that relatively simple and inexpensive collectors can be used to collect the energy.

Although the concept appears promising at first glance, and many systems have been tried within the last few years with the results pronounced as "successful," further analysis of the concept is needed. As moisture contents increase, allowable drying time decreases which means higher airflow rates are required. As temperatures increase, allowable drying time decreases, again requiring higher airflow rates.

Seed supply surveyed

WASHINGTON, D.C. – Production of alfalfa and annual ryegrass seed was down last year, but red clover seed, Kentucky bluegrass seed, tall fescue seed and timothy seed production all moved up. Alfalfa seed output totaled 87.2 million pounds, down nine per cent from the 1977 total. Red clover seed production totaled 31.3 million pounds, up 26 per cent from the small 1977 crop. Annual ryegrass seed, 200 million pounds was down 13 per cent, according to USDA.

Nafziger looks forward to challenges in Nepal

By JOAN LIESAU

PHOENIXVILLE - Dale Nafziger, a 24 year old from Phoenixville R3, started his journey January 9, to the third world country of Nepal. Sponsored by the Mennonite Central Committee, Dale will be working in the area of electrical engineering to help improve Nepal's agricultural systems.

Dale, the son of June and David Nafziger, will be working for the United Mission in Nepal, which is bordered between India and China. As an electrical engineer, the 1978 Penn State graduate will be involved with the design and installation of turbines. Dale explained that in Nepal, which is an agricultural country, water driven turbines spin and drive the generators. These generators are then used in harvesting and other agricultural purposes.

The Vincent Mennonite Church Sunday School teacher will spend three years in the country. The first four months will be spent learning Nepali, the country's language. Dale said he "will be involved in the church, but no missionary work will be done" as he explained it was illegal to do missionary work in Nepal.

Dale said he was "interviewed at Penn State in January. Being brought up as a Mennonite, I've always heard about it." Dale added that he applied for the position because he "would like the international experience" and wanted to see the world "from a wider perspective," adding he would "like to help people who need help"."

Dale attended the Penn State Berks Campus in Reading for two years and the Penn State, University Park campus for two years. As a graduate, Dale said he has a general background in the work he will be doing. Dale was also very active in Chester County's Tri-Community 4-H Club for ten years.

Dr. Fredd recalls 30 years of vo-ag work

By SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Writer

QUARRYVILLE – For nineteen out of the last twenty years, Dr. William Fredd has been chaperoning blue and gold jacketed boys to the Pennsylvania Farm Show. This year the Solanco FFA members going to Harrisburg will be instructed by other capable teachers in his absence since his retirement from teaching this past Spring.

Dr. Fredd retired from teaching in 1978, after thirty years of service. Having graduated from Oxford Area High School in Chester County and Penn State with a B.S. in 1938, Dr. Fredd first started his career at Solanco, then called Quarryville High School, for a two-year period, 1938 to 40. He then taught six more years in the Coatesville-Downingtown and Downingtown High School agriculture departments.

From 1946 to 1957 Dr. Fredd was engaged in farming and farm related occupations. In 1957 he returned to Solanco to become department head in 1971, a position he held until his retirement in 1978.

Continuing his education, he received his Masters Degree from the University of Delaware in 1964 and his Doctorate from Penn State in 1972.

Looking back over his thirty years as a vocational agriculture teacher, Dr. Fredd summs it all up as a rewarding career with many specific highlights. The list includes the Solanco dairy club, the land judging competitions and successes, and working with the young farmers and community people.

Recalling that the Solanco Dairy Club was started ten years ago at the request of a student, Dave Bitler, under the guidance of former Solanco teacher, Steve Leiser, Dr Fredd explained that for all but the initial year he advised the group. Pairing younger, less experienced members with more experienced judges is the key to the club's program, Fredd pointed out.

"The kids can learn much faster with one of their own classmates than with a teacher teaching from a book," he explained. The club members get several years' experience in giving reasons and they get to see many good herds all over the East," he added.

Fredd credits the club with not only winning results at judging contests but with instilling a love for the dairy cow and a desire to do a good job in dairy farming among many of its past members.

Another highlight of his career working with young people is his involvement with the landjudging groups at Solanco. Dr. Fredd said that while he was away from teaching in the fifties, the land judging aspect was added to the vo-ag curriculum and it was consequently a new thing to him when he returned to the classrooms in 1957. The study guide for instructing the students in land judging was in his words, "The most clever and useful instrument to learn about soils and land."

Perhaps because of his personal enthusiasm for this segment of vocational instruction, the Solanco chapter won many outstanding awards. The second revision of the teaching guide, when published included on its cover three top Solanco FFA land judges. The third revision, published during the 1976 to 77 school year, includes input Dr. Fredd worked out while serving as a specialist for the state in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture at Penn State.

Also among the list of fond memories was Dr. Fredd's seeing many young people being established in agriculture and his working with the people of the local communities.

"It is good to see a kid start out in school, as a freshmen and then begin to develop, and finally see him ten years afterward," he explained.

"Education is also teaching a student that a certain future is not for him," he added. "When kids grow up in a rural area they see the farmer running the tractors and by the time they are ten they want to be a farmer. We have to teach a realistic view of what being a farmer is," he explained.

In the process of teaching vo-ag courses, Dr. Fredd recalls in a humorous light how the problem solving and learning-by-doing activities of the ag classrooms fifteen years ago seemed to some to be mass confusion while such "doing" activities and classroom procedures are acceptable now in most other subjects as well.

Dr. Fredd emphasized that every child and every family is different. "The family still has the greatest influence on the child." If the parent says it can be done, then the child thinks it can be done," he noted. "If the parent says it can't be done then more than likely the child will believe it can't be done."

"I think the success of the Solanco Ag department is the result of the cooperation with the families and the desire of these children and their families to succeed," Dr. Fredd remarked.

"Economic pressures have made a change and farmers have to analyze their business to see that they are producing efficiently." But inflation of the land value in the Solanco Area in recent years has allowed young farmers to get bigger," he explained when asked if it was still possible for young people to get a start in farming in today's economy. Increased land values have made borrowing easier using the land as collateral.

Agri-business accounts for much of the future of many vo-ag students according to Fredd. "The leadership roles in vo-ag education and the rural background of the vo-ag students build a

NEW HOLLAND - Amos B. Stauffer, Stauffer Diesel Inc., New Holland was one of over 300 Deutz dealers who attended a three-day, action-packed new product introduction hosted by Deutz Agricultural Equipment Division in Orlando, Florida, last month.

While in Orlando, Stauffer attended intensive orientation sessions designed to fully acquaint Deutz dealers with the new Deutz agricultural equipment. Included in the new line of products are four DX Agricultural tractors, each available in 2-WD or 4-WD versions. Ranging from 84 to 140 pto horsepower, these are the first "formula" engineered tractors combining new power, more comfort and superior, innovative technology. Also unveiled was the new D 6806/A tractor featuring a new, fully synchronized transmission with 12 forward and four reverse speeds.

Stauffer was also included in demonstrations of Deutz-Fahr hay and forage-handling equipment. New in this line are the Fahr KS 100 windrow rake, designed to produce single or double untangled, fluffy windrows, the Fahr KH 40 DN Centipede Haymaker which turns, tedds and spreads in one operation and the Fahr KH 900 forage harvester that provides highly convenient changes from 2-row corn head to hay pick-up attachment.

Deutz Corporation, Agricultural Equipment Division, a subsidiary of Klockner-Humboldt-Deutz, Cologne, West Germany, is located in Atlanta Ga. with regional offices in Atlanta; Columbus, Ohio; and Davenport, Iowa. Deutz markets agricultural tractors ranging from 32 to 140 pto horsepower and Deutz-Fahr hay and forage-handling equipment.

Terry Shawer, Deutz district manager for Pennsylvania, welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Amos Stauffer of New Holland to the new product introduction hosted by the Deutz Corporation in Orlando, Florida last month.

'Action Banker' named

HARRSIBURG - E. Clair Adams, assistant vice president of Dauphin Deposit Bank and Trust Company, Carlisle, has been appointed an Agricultural Action Banker by the Pennsylvania Bankers Association.

Agricultural Action Bankers, a program sponsored by the American Bankers Association's (ABA) Agricultural Bankers Division, fulfill a liaison function between the national Association and their state bankers association.

As an Agricultural Action Banker, Adams will review and comment to ABA on national legislative and regulatory issues affecting agriculture, inform his state association of national ag banking activities and development and channel state and local farm finance issues and information to the National Association.

ABA's Agricultural Bankers Division is concerned with the supply of loans and financial services to farmers and rural communities.

The ABA is the national trade association of the banking industry.

IH sells twine mill

NEW ORLEANS, La. - International Harvester (IH) has agreed to sell its New Orleans, La. twine mill to Twine Products Corporation, New Orleans, an independent company which will own and operate the facility.

Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

The 233,000 square foot plant is the world's largest plastic and sisal twine mill, and the only producer of sisal twine in the U.S. This twine is used for hay baling as well as industrial applications.

About 130 people are employed. Twine Products plans to hire all the plant's hourly and most of the salaried and managerial personnel.

IH started producing twine in New Orleans in 1923, and the present plant was built in 1952 on a land lease to 1997 with the New Orleans port authority.

"The sale is part of IH's continuing program to redeploy its assets for maximum company benefit," said Ben H. Warren, president of the Agricultural Equipment Group which operates the twine mill.

"In Twine Products, we are pleased to have found a buyer that is interested in operating the plant as a going concern," he added.

wonderful foundation for work in agri-business," he added.

Forty vocational agriculture teachers from Pennsylvania honored Dr. Fredd in September for his many extra hours spent working with the Solanco FFA students in their projects and special clubs.

Upon retirement from teaching, Dr. Fredd completed studies to qualify for and obtained a Brokers license and since November 1, 1978, he has been in the real estate business with his son-in-law with an office in Quarryville.

"I never was a hobby man and I sort of worked or fooled with the idea of farm real estate and then studied and passed the real estate sales examination several years ago." He worked for fifteen years with other firms before setting up the Fredd-Eddy Realty this past Fall

"When asked if he missed teaching or the prospects of not going to the Farm Shnow in 1979 with the Solanco FFA, Dr. Fredd said that at first in September, he was very busy and did not mond it but since to the National FFA convention in November "It is crept up on me then."

Dr. Fredd along with his wife Frances have lived in Quarryville for the past six years. They have two children, James a silversmith in Tucson, Arizona; and Jane Eddy who is employed by the Family and Childrens Service in Lancaster. Mrs. Fredd teaches home economics in the Coatesville School District.

Dechant says

Proclaiming that American cattlemen struggled through 36 straight months of production at a loss before their economic catastrophe was turned around last Spring, Dechant scorned the Carter Administration for having allowed beef imports into the country at that time. Their effect, despite the Administration's arguments to the contrary, was that beef prices tumbled. The message cattlemen received, says Dechant, is that it's not going to pay them to expand their cattle herds. Hence, the supply of meat will be scarce, and prices high. Dechant in no uncertain terms blames government strategists for the dilemma.

Touching on fuel supplies, Dechant said:

"A couple of years ago, when supplies were scarce, we were told that if prices went up, there'd be plenty of energy to go around. Well, back home I paid around 33 cents for a gallon of gasoline back then, now we're up over 70 cents a gallon, and how much more fuel have we got?" he inquired.

"Interest rates," Dechant continued, "are at their highest level in years; if they continue to climb like they are, they'll soon be at their highest point in 100 years. Inflation and unemployment are also increasing."

"What's it going to take to get America back to work?" is his underlying question.

As far as the farm economy is concerned, Dechant believes it can be improved with the simple stroke of a pen to increase commodity loan rates. A healthy farm economy, he argues, would lead to greater stability and productivity in other segments of business as well.

"The essence of free enterprise is consumption," the NFU chief went on. We produce and we consume. Our economic decisions have to relate to that, he said.

Considered to be one of the leading spokesmen for family agriculture, Dechant warns that dairy farmers in Pennsylvania and the rest of the country will face souring payments if support prices are allowed to dip below the 80 per cent level, as prescribed by law. Legislation to that effect comes to an end this Fall, and in view of that, Dechant urges dairymen to work towards continued price supports at 80 per cent or higher. The National Farmers Union, he added, favors dairy support prices at 90 per cent.

Another important legislative item is the Meat Import Act, which Dechant says will be reintroduced in Congress this year. Jimmy Carter vetoed the measure during the previous session of Congress.

While blaming the Carter Administration and meat imports for a portion of the ills in the agricultural economy, Dechant says even more can be done for cattlemen if the "Yellow Sheet" meat pricing formula "is brought out on the table where people can see it and understand it and those involved can be held accountable for it. Dechant charges that a few men determine meat prices across the country, but that their methods and reasons, which are finalized on yellow paper, are not fully understood.

"I urge you to send letters to your congressmen, asking them to oppose "Yellow Sheet" pricing. That's one of the key places where we lose our shirts," he affirmed.

Nearing the conclusion of his remarks, Dechant took a direct stab at the heart of the nation's government. "We're the oldest democracy on Earth," he said in an emphatic tone, "and I think democracy is a god system, but we haven't been able to make it work in peacetime." Then he added: No other nation has been as richly blessed as the United States. Having been given so much, we have a responsibility of meeting the challenges of sufficient food production for ourselves and our neighbors.

Will America be able to meet the challenge?

Despite his negative observations, Dechant says he is confident the country will get off "dead center." He is encouraged by the amount of interest that is being shown for agriculture by religious, civic, and womens organizations. Also, consumers want to know more about farming and farm problems, Dechant says.

The farm leader cautions farmers, however, about becoming complacent with their increased spotlight. He encourages them to continue to work collectively for better farm prices and fair trade legislation. "We need an energy and food policy that makes sense for those who are intimately tied to the soil because it's the right thing to do," he concluded.

Angus Association chief acuses Carter of communications gap with nation's cattlemen

Editor's Note: The enclosed open letter to President Carter from the Executive Vice-President of the American Angus Association, is an expression of deep concern on the part of the leadership of the largest beef cattle registry association in the world, about the Administration's handling of beef import legislation, and the message administration actions are sending to cattle producers. It is affecting the price of beef today, and will have a continuing effect for a number of years, the Angus Association says.

Dear President Carter:

The message your Administration is sending to beef cattle producers is being received loud and clear. Unfortunately, I doubt the message they are receiving is the message you think you are transmitting.

I represent 35,322 producers of Angus cattle who are working to increase the production of high quality beef cattle in this country. And they will, if they are allowed to make reasonable profits on their investment, get a return for their labor, and are confident that these reasonable returns will continue for at least a few years. They need this assurance in order to justify investing in long range production expansion.

These American Angus Association members represent more than 106,000 consumers. This is not a lot of people compared to the total population, but agriculture producers consume more products per capita than other segments of the population because they buy goods for production in addition to what they need for day to day living. Cattle producers therefore are extremely conscious of rising costs and the need to keep inflation under control.

It for these reasons that I am concerned about the communications gap between you and cattle producers. I believe that you are trying to encourage beef producers to expand production. But your actions and comments along with those of Secretary Bergland are having the reverse effect.

Livestock producers received no federal subsidy when they were losing their shirts. Many producers in business in 1974 went bankrupt. Others lost their life savings at retirement age, with little chance of ever making it back. Many of the producers that survived did so by increasing their debt load and almost all survivors found other sources of income.

These losses incurred by livestock producers were a subsidy to consumers who enjoyed beef from 1974 through 1977, priced below the cost of production. These low prices helped keep the inflation index down, and made your administration's inflation fight look better than it deserved in 1976 and 1977.

Beef prices in 1978 moved to profitable levels for the first time since 1973. Instead of praising cattlemen for helping keep inflation down in previous years and pointing out to the public that the new higher prices were justified, you and your administration spokesmen started to label beef as an inflation leader. And this at a time when beef prices still had not reached the level of a few years earlier.

Administration efforts to expand production should have started in 1976 when cattlemen were still losing money. But nothing was done. The solution to the problem, then as now, was to assure cattlemen that profitable times were just around the corner and could be counted on for some time to come. This would have helped slow herd liquidation and brought about earlier expansion.

To make matters worse, your efforts in 1978 and 1979 are still not doing this. Expansion of beef imports by 200 million pounds in 1978 and an additional increase of 78 million pounds in 1979, has discouraged beef cattle expansion. The same is true for your veto of the beef import bill. These actions say to cattlemen that long term herd expansion may not be profitable. It encourages them to take profits now rather than to retain cows and heifers for breeding and future expansion. To put it briefly your actions have made cattlemen leery of the future.

Cattlemen, agricultural producers, and all consumers are waiting for signs that you are going to take a realistic approach to slowing down or stopping inflation. As president of the United States you are in the best position to curb deficit spending and bureaucratic inefficiency.

Putting the blame for much of our inflation on the beef cattle industry will not even slow down inflation's growth. Worse, it will cause cattlemen to hold back on plans for increased production, and will work against your campaign promises of reducing inflation to manageable levels and balancing the federal budget in 1981.

Sincerely,
C. K. Allen
Executive Vice-President
American Angus Association

According to a news release from the United States Department of Agriculture, U.S. meat imports under the Meat Import Act of 1964 will be maintained in 1979 at the levels permitted during the last half of 1978. Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Dale E. Hathaway said President Carter had directed the agriculture and state departments to negotiate agreements with meat exporting countries to limit total 1979 U.S. imports of fresh, chilled and frozen beef, veal, mutton and goat meat to 1,570 million pound.

Hathaway said the decision is consistent with the President's statement to cattle producer representatives July 25 that he would not permit unlimited beef imports in 1979.

The president acted after the Secretary of Agriculture notified him that meat imports covered by the act probably would exceed the law's "trigger" level of 1,244.8 million pounds, Hathaway said.

Without voluntary restraint agreements, he said, it was estimated meat imports would reach 1,640 million pounds during the coming year.

Under the law, Hathaway said, the President will invoke the prescribed quotas and then suspend them.

The allowable import level during 1978 was 1,492 million pounds, with a slight increase in actual shipments coming in the last half of the year. Prorated on a monthly basis, the new level will permit meat imports at the same level as those of the past six months.

Potatoes set record

WASHINGTON, D.C. – U.S. potato stocks as of Jan. 1 continue to be at a record high. At 190.4 million cwt., stocks in the fall producing areas were seven per cent above a year earlier and nine per cent above the Jan. 1, 1977 total. That's record high (for the date) for the third straight year and four years in the past five.

This, though stocks in the seven eastern states totaled only 26.2 million cwt., down nine per cent from a year ago and the lowest in the Eastern region since 1974.

Stocks in the eight central states totaled 40.5 million cwt., up eight per cent from a year ago, while the eight western states had 124 million cwt. in storage, up 11 per cent from a year ago.
